Natural Resource Inventory Maps To Aid Housing Development Here

The key Natural Resource Inventory maps that will guide the Planning Board toward a decision about housing and community development were delivered to the board Monday night by Samuel Hamill, who had prepared them under contract with the board.

Even with the maps, however – according to board member Elizabeth Hutter – it will still be at least a year before housing and land-use elements of the forthcoming Master Plan can be completed.

The NRI was originally done for the Township in 1974 by graduate students from the University of Pennsylvania. The inventory included the entire Stony Brook watershed.

Although Planning Board members emphasize that the students' study was a good one, it came out in a format that was difficult to use – large and ungainly, technical and difficult for lay members of the board or, in fact, professional planners, to use.

Commissioned by the board, Mr. Hamill, who is executive director of the Middlesex - Somerset - Mercer Regional Study Council, has synthesized the information, brought it up to date and focused it on Princeton. The revision makes no distinction between Borough and Township.

High and low-density maps – each delineating areas where low, moderate and high-density use might be suitable – will give both land-use and housing committees of the Planning Board a working tool. For example, the availability of public water supply and sewers is now visible.

A stream protection map and a drainage map show where there is high run-off potential, high erosion potential, and slopes greater than 12 percent. A corrected geology map details the underlying land features of the region.

On a community-values map, the planners can now see historic sites, untouched woodlands of more than 100 acres, existing farms, recreation and open space areas.

Such details, for example, as the extent of boulders on the diabase ridge – valuable information for builders who may want to know what their shovels are likely to dig into – are now more clearly in the open. A Planning Board member who may not recall exactly where a certain swampy area is located, now has a map to provide accurate information.

Mr. Hamill estimates that 40 percent of the land in the area is developed. The maps are expected to guide the Planning Board in deciding how much of the remainder is suitable for building: high density or low density, office-research or stores, neighborhood-business or open space, and what trade-offs may have to be made in order to meet housing needs.

Because housing is also concerned with access to transportation, shopping, schools and recreation, plus the existence of roads and sewers, board members point out that work on the housing and land-use plans must incorporate all these elements simultaneously.

Natural resource inventories are now required under New Jersey's land-use act. Princeton had a head start, in the Township's 1974 study, and Planning Board members hope that with a full-time professional planner now working for the board, and the NRI maps completed, work can accelerate.

Heat Rises as Date Nears for Referendum On $4.3 Million in Bonds to Renovate PHS

In less than two weeks, Princeton voters will decide whether to renovate the Princeton High School building.

A public hearing on the referendum will be held next Wednesday, December 7, at 8 p.m. in the high school.

The $4,366,000 bond issue referendum will be held Tuesday, December 13. Polling places will be listed in next week's TOWN TOPICS.

Sparked to a large extent by school board member Rosalind Frisch, opposition to the referendum has been growing in recent days, although it has not by any means reached conflagration proportions.

Mrs. Frisch cast the only "no" vote last Tuesday when the school board passed the formal referendum resolution. The vote was 7-1, Joseph P. Moore absent. Observers had thought that Robin Wallack might join Mrs. Frisch, but she voted with the majority.

Both Mrs. Frisch and Mrs. Wallack have declared their preference for a two-part referendum in which one part would be solely for repairs linked to health and safety.

Rumors that another board member, Hannah Fox, secretly opposed the referendum were denied vehemently by Mrs. Fox, who declared that she was "enthusiastically in favor" of the referendum, and was "shocked" when she heard of the rumor.

Mrs. Fox said she had attended meetings of the BRAC citizens committee that recommended the $4.3 million bond issue, and regards it as "vital" that the referendum pass.

She cited improvements in education and the correcting of safety problems as the two main reasons for her support.

"By educational improvement," she said, "I mean a decent library space, and the flexibility to have both large and small classrooms. This can mean team teaching, and bringing in outside speakers to address, for example, all the freshmen or all American history students.

"Yes, it is expensive to correct the safety problems. The school building is like an old house. But it's not as expensive as building a new school.

"I have spoken firmly at public meetings of my reasons for NOT separating the bond issue: we need more than repairs for safety."

Mrs. Wallack explained that, although she would have preferred to divide the referendum into two parts, and is "unhappy about some of it," she planned to cast a "yes" vote.

"I am relying on the advice of our Superintendent and Assistant Superintendent, who support the referendum," Mrs. Wallack said.

At last week's board meeting and in more detail this week, Mrs. Frisch said she would prefer to wait for a referendum until Superintendent Paul Houston has completed his own evaluation of the high school.

"We're asking voters to spend money on a plan that may not fall into line with what we'll do in the high school," she said. "I've been accused of not wanting anything done, but that is not so. Because I want SOMETHING done, I wanted the referendum to be in two parts. Now, if it's defeated, it's possible nothing will be done.

"Also, it's possible that we may be looking in some programs we want to phase out. The state's Department of Facilities is now looking at our plans to approve them or not. If they approve them, can we ever make a change?"

Mrs. Frisch points in particular to a two-story auto lift planned for the Industrial Arts department. "It was put in two weeks ago, as an afterthought," she has charged.

She also charged last week that physical education teachers, apparently in a confidential memo to the board on another subject, declared their opposition to the referendum, and believed that the gyms could be better used if scheduling were improved.

Board president Dietrich Meyerhofer ruled her remarks "out of order" because of the document's confidential nature. (For the teachers' denial, and a reply by Mrs. Frisch, see "Mailbox" page 25.)

The two-story auto lift would enable auto mechanics students to crawl under a car.

"The cost is a minimal expenditure of about $10,000 to $20,000," Mr. Petrillo said. "We'd cut through the ceiling to a classroom on the floor above which we don't need. We have no lift now, so work in auto mechanics is limited."

Mr. Petrillo said that 26 students take auto mechanics, and another 36 take power mechanics, which would be in the same auto lift room.

"We're always being criticized for not caring for the student who isn't going to college," Mr. Petrillo observed. "We want to do more for that 15 percent of the student body because this is a comprehensive high-school, not just an academic high school."

The auto lift was first mentioned in late August at a BRAC meeting, Mr. Petrillo recalled, by a BRAC member who asked what was being done for vocational students.

The principal said auto mechanics, like other industrial Arts courses, serves both the pre-vocational student and the student who only wants to learn about cars.

At Tuesday night's meeting, board president Dietrich Meyerhofer said the auto lift didn't have to be firm.

"There will be no final plans until the bidding," he explained. "Changes can be made then, and again after the bids."

"To have a referendum package for repairs only, and then come back in three years for education needs is irresponsible," he added.

Gail Firestone, board member, reminded Mrs. Frisch that BRAC had warned the board not to break the referendum into two.

"That would cause the educational part to be defeated," Dr.

PHS Referendum

Firestone said "The library is now handling twice its capacity, the interest centers are ill-equipped."

But Mrs Frisch counters by saying that in the proposed new library, one-third of the space is given to audio-visual needs and sound studios, "without enough sitting space for reading."

"This could be seen as a frill," she says, and suggests closer co-operation with the Princeton public Library to work on solving the high school's library space problems.

She also says she is disturbed by lack of a contingency plan in case the referendum is defeated, and she questions the need for $1 million to make repairs. Her own figures, she says, show $730,000 for repairs, including lockers and drinking fountains which, she adds, could be eliminated.

"Vandalism of the lockers is a symptom of educational or administrative problems," she commented. "New lockers won't solve the problem."

While the town talks about the referendum, the high school newspaper, The Tower, this week announced its "reluctant" support of the referendum.

Student editors say the refereadum ignores the staffing problem, and the reluctance of their support is summed up "Remember that the trappings are just that, and that what really makes a school good are the students and teachers. Without them, the rest is superfluous."

"That it is possible to build spacious new classrooms, is great. That there may be many fewer teachers to teach in those classrooms is almost pathetic."

The Tower also aims a blow at the adult taxpayer. Criticizing the state for the low "cap" it has placed on the Princeton school budget, The Tower writers say:

"Where the state got the idea that the Princeton schools have a lot of money, is open to speculation. True, Princeton is an extremely wealthy town. It's too bad we never see any of the money, as Princeton residents are notoriously tight with their purse-strings."

Meanwhile, many of those taxpayers are pushing for passage of the bond referendum.

The BRIC committee of citizens assured parents this week that renovation will proceed without disruption of the high school's academic schedule.

Exterior repairs would begin immediately. Next summer construction of the new gym and lockers would begin, along with relocation of some science labs, construction of elevator additions and replacement of ceiling tile and lights.

Renovations that would disrupt central areas would be done in the summer of 1979. Work on the new gym and library can be done during the school year because the areas are outside the normal flow of heavy traffic.

Members of the Community Park Parent Teacher Organization board, have mailed to all school parents an announcement of their endorsement of the referendum, and a detailed list of their reasons for doing so.

Referring to a high school tour taken by the board, the letter says board members "were truly shocked by the conditions - in classrooms, locker rooms, and study or 'interest' centers. From the outside, the high school looks like a lovely place to go to school, on the inside, it is woefully inadequate."

"Some maintenance will be required almost immediately, with or without the renovation plan," the Community Park letter states. "The roof must be replaced. If it can be done under the renovation plan, there will be an additional pressure on the already squeezed general district operating budget."

"Even extraordinary maintenance work cannot transform inadequate equipment and undersized, dismal classrooms and gym facilities."

The letter also points to the community wide representation on the Bond Referendum Advisory Committee.

Absentee Ballots for School Referendum

"Absentee" means you're out of town the day of an election. If your son or daughter is away at college and wants to vote in the high school referendum, or if you yourself are simply a commuter who can't get home in time to make it to the polls by 9 p.m., you may vote by absentee ballot.

Application postcards may be picked up at all the schools, the Princeton public library or the Valley Road office of William Evans, school board secretary.

Fill out the postcard and mail it in – it's already addressed – to the Mercer County clerk. It MUST be in the clerk's office by the end of the day next Monday, December 5.

Your referendum ballot will be mailed to you. Mark it, and get it back to the Mercer County clerk by 9 p.m. Tuesday, December 13, the day of the referendum.

If you're trusting to the mails, the ballot has to be at the clerk's office during the day December 13. If you're in a position to do so, you could take it to the Mercer County Administration Building or have someone take it for you.

RADIO TOWER?

Public Hearing Set. A single, consolidated police radio tower for Borough and Township – perhaps a symbolic structure? – will be the subject of public hearing when the Planning Board meets next Tuesday.

The board now meets in the Valley Road Building. Meeting time is 8 p.m.

There has been confusion about the number of towers. The Township's original application for a tower behind Borough Hall referred to two towers the Township's new, tall one, designed for ultra high frequency use, and the Borough's present very high frequency tower. The Environmental Design Review Committee didn't like the idea of two, and granted approval to the Township only on condition that a single tower be used.

Also, the Township's police radio consultant has said that a two-tower arrangement would have negative effects on the Borough's own police radio reception, and would mean that the Township's tower would have to be too far from the transmitter.

There has been little time for working out the problem because the Township has been faced with the deadline for sending the legally-required notices to Borough Hall neighbors. Borough officials told the Township to proceed with the notices so that neighbors who wish to protest may do so at Tuesday's hearing.

Robert F. Mooney, Borough Administrator, says there is no plan for Borough Council to appear at the hearing, possibly to protest, however, Council meets this Wednesday and could decide to make an appearance. Presumably, according to Township Administrator Joseph R. Nini, the Township will pay for removing the present Borough radio tower and installing the Township's new tall one to serve both communities.

The Township needs a conditional use permit from the Planning Board because the tower is in a residential zone.

In other business, the Planning Board will hear the request of Princeton Savings and Loan, at 132 Nassau, to convert the upper floor of the building to its own office use. A studio, an apartment and a Swedish massage studio are located in the area now.

WANT TO BE ON BOARD?

School Elections Coming. Just because a referendum is coming up doesn't mean annual elections to the Princeton Regional Board of Education have been forgotten. They will be held February 7, 1978, and four seats on the board are to be filled. Only one incumbent– Dale Madden–has said that he will probably run again.

Joseph P. Moore, Borough board member filling out the remaining one year in the term of Judith Getis (who moved from Princeton), said this week that he hasn't yet decided whether to run for a full three-year term.

The other Borough member whose term expires this year is Robin Wallack, and she says she hasn't decided yet, either. Mrs. Wallack explained that she has just started a new job and wants to see how consuming it is.

In the Township, school board veteran Winthrop Pike, who has served 11 years on the board, is also undecided. He says he hasn't lost interest, but is still thinking about whether to run again.

Mr. Madden, a Township representative, said that although he hasn't firmly decided yet, it is likely that he will run for a second term.

Deadline for filing petitions is Thursday, December 29, at 4. Since the schools will be closed that day, board secretary William Evans suggests that a safer deadline for candidates is Wednesday, December 28.

Candidates must be at least 18 years old, a citizen of the United States and a resident of the municipality for at least two years. Literacy is also a requirement. Petitions may be obtained from Mr. Evans' office in the Valley Road building.

LOTS OF SOUND

But Little Fire. A general alarm at 5:29 Friday evening sent all Princeton volunteer fire companies scurrying to the Graduate College, where only a few minutes earlier a security officer had reported a fire near the 24th entry.

Police said the blaze, a small one, was confined to a trash container in a bathroom but its smoke had caused various detectors in the building to go off.

Faulty Heater. Two fire trucks were sent to a building at 262 Alexander Street Thursday afternoon, after Township police investigated a report of smoke inside. It houses the Princeton Ballet Society and Haskins Press.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Shapiro, 161 Von Neumann Drive, called police at 12:46 when they entered the building to return a tape recorder and saw smoke in the ballet practice room.

PO Mario Masso responded. He determined that the smoke was coming from the basement and locked in the cellar door. A malfunctioning heater, in need of a cleaning, was the source of the smoke, and assistant fire Chief Ted Kopp called Nassau Oil to send a repairman. The only damage, police said, was soot on the walls of the practice room.

Cigar-Smoker on Bus Keeps Smoking, Gets First Ticket for Breaking Law

It's almost enough to want to give up smoking.

More evidence that tolerance for smokers in public places is diminishing surfaced last week in Princeton, when a 23-year old Trenton resident was taken off a Mercer Metro bus after refusing to put out his cigar.

Responding to a call from the bus dispatcher who had received a complaint from the bus driver, Sgt. Ralph Procaccino and PO William Clark boarded the bus at Nassau Street and Palmer Square and asked Phillip Feggans Jr. to comply with the state statute prohibiting smoking on a public conveyance. Mr. Feggan refused to extinguish his cigar and refused to leave. His refusal resulted in the issuance of a complaint summons, "the first time this has occurred in Princeton," commented Chief Michael Carnevale.

Cote De Beaune
Some Of The World's Finest

The Cote de Beaune (Coat-duh-Bone) is the home of some of the world's most famous white and red wines.

The Cote de Beaune comprises the southern half of the renowned Cote d'Or (which produces almost all of the great Burgundies). The Cote de Beaune is famous for its white wines such as Montrachet, Meursault, Corton Charlemagne, and the equally renowned red wines of Pommard, Aloxe - Corton, Savigny - les - Beaune and others. These are considered to be amongst the worlds finest wines. The only grapes permitted for the production of the red wines are the Pinot Noir, Pinot Liebault, and Pinot Beurot. The wines must contain a minimum of 11.5% alcohol by volume.

For the production of white wines, only the Pinot Chardonnay may be used, and the minimum alcoholic content must be 12% with a few exceptions such as wine from the vineyards of Batard - Montrachet, Bienvenue Batard - Montrachet, and Criots - Batard - Montrachet.

A good deal of regional wine labelled as "Cote de Beaune" or "Cote de Beaune - Villages" is also produced. These are less expensive but nevertheless excellent.

THREE HOMES ENTERED

In Township Three homes in the Township were entered last week, police report

A brown leather pocketbook containing $180 was taken from a counter in the kitchen of Carol Ann Fulmar, 28 Linwood Circle There was no evidence of forced entry but apparently the thief got inside through a door leading to he garage. Less than an hour after discovering the theft, the victim's pocketbook was found on a neighbor's lawn—intact except for the money.

During the holiday weekend, someone entered the home of Chester W. Sall, 121 Grover Avenue, and took a man's jewelry box valued at $50 and $19 in cash.

After apparently failing in gain access through a kitchen window, which police found cracked, the intruder pried open a side cellar door and proceeded to shuffle through items in the cellar Then he went upstairs, forced the interior cellar door and searched every room in the house Ptl Robert Nielsen investigated

Carol Orr, 204 N. Harrison Street, told police that she discovered her house had been entered when she arrived home Friday from a Thanksgiving holiday.

A check of the house revealed that nothing had been taken, although there was evidence that jewelry in a bedroom had been disturbed The intruder broke a pane of glass in a rear door to enter.

In the Borough, a Horner Lane couple found their home had been entered when they returned a round midnight Saturday. Taken were a $500 gold diamond ring, a $300 fur coat and a $150 wrist watch Police said bureau drawers in the bedroom had been ransacked

The home was entered through a rear door. Ptl James Agins and Ptl. Joseph Wilhelm Investigated.

STOPS FOR HITCHHIKER

Car Hit From Behind. The car of Enoch S Harvey, 33, of New Brunswick was struck from behind by another car last week when it stopped on the Lawrenceville Road to pick up a hitchhiker

Ptl David Cromwell issued summonses to Mr Harvey for improper stopping on a highway and to the second driver, Albert Fan, 31, of Trenton, for careless driving Mr Harvey and Shirley Fan, 31, both complained of minor head injuries and were taken to Princeton Medical Center for treatment

The incident took place at 2 05 Friday morning, 3,000 feet from the intersection of Quaker Road

The car of a Trenton resident was totalled, after it slid out of control on rain-slick Stockton Street between Elm and Lovers Lane early last Wednesday morning and struck two telephone poles

The driver, Lancia McQueen, 25, told police he pulled to the right when he saw another car coming in the opposite direction, causing it to slide Out of control, it slammed into a public service pole on the opposite side of the road, tearing loose the right front fender and hood It continued on for another 141 feet

In the process, it tore up the lawn, hedge and fence poles at 20 Elm Road, and struck a second pole 120 feet from the first pole. Mr McQuaan escaped injury but was ticketed by Ptl. James Agins for careless driving and operating a car with unsafe tires

Cyclist Falls. Arlene Greenberg, 34, 64 Raedall Road, fell while she was dismounting her bicycle Monday morning at the intersection of Abernathy drive and Magnolia Lane. The sidewalk was snowcovered and slippery at the time, according to Sgt Michael Koplinar and Ptl. John Hammond, who responded

Mrs Greenberg was taken by the Princeton First Aid Squad in the Medical Center, where she was treated for an injury to her lower back.

JADWIN FLOOR SPRAYED

With Fire Extinguishers. Vandals last week squirted fire extinguishers on the basketball floor at Jadwin Gym They also ransacked a conference room and tore a telephone wire from a cabinet on the second floor

The incident was reported by Anthony Relvas, freshman basketball coach, who was also a victim He told police that he had parked his sister's car in front of the gym at 7:30 Thursday evening and when he returned the next day he discovered that someone had taken two extinguishers from the gym and thrown them through the windshield of his car. There was no estimate of the damamge

STOLEN DOORS FOUND

Garage Owner Charged. Two doors taken from a Fiat parked last week at Nemeth Motors on Route 206 here while waiting for repair have been located by Washington Township police

Safety Tips for Joggers in Early Darkness

"I know it's a great sport, it's helpful, but it is becoming a problem for us, especially with early darkness."

The man with a problem is Sgt Anthony Nini, the Township's Traffic Safety Officer, who reports receiving a number of complaints about joggers. He offers these suggestions

● Try to jog during daylight hours If you have in jog at night, wear light-colored clothing – preferably florescent-marked – and always move against the traffic, just like a pedestrian.

● Avoid narrow streets Choose wide, well lighted streets and try to use those with sidewalks

● By all means, avoid jogging along highways

"We've had a lot of problems at the Harrison Street Bridge," added Sgt. Nini. "Can you imagine two cars passing and a jogger on that bridge?" He reported that a pedestrian was recently knocked to the ground when he was sideswiped by a bus at the approach to the bridge

In short, enjoy your jogging, Sgt. Nini asks, but take all safety precautions so you can live to jog another day

A Viable Alternative

Nice to ski,
Nice to sled,
Just as nice
A snug, warm bed

Snow – not all that much – but falling on three different days as November was drawing to an end Another hard winter?

Not so, the long-range National Weather Service claims. Temperature about normal, at least into February, and for the first part of December a bit milder than normal

Precipitation in some form is likely however, just about every 48 hours through the rest of the week it should be rain, not snow, if the forecast for a thermometer range from the low 30s to the mid 50s is correct.

Western Kingbird, Rare Visitor Here Finds Our Weather Not to His Liking

A Western Kingbird was seen early Thanksgiving morning by the Macpherson Raymonds near the barn at their home on Cherry Valley Road.

The sighting was confirmed there Friday morning by Thomas Southerland who went and saw the bird sitting on a white picket fence. Mr. Southerland was the prime mover for the creation of the Wildlife Refuge off Alexander Street and with his wife Margot has a life list of close to 600 species.

Although Mr. Southerland says he saw one at the Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed refuge a year ago last fall, the bird is essentially a denizen of the western half of the United States and only occasionally wanders east. Like its cousin, the Eastern Kingbird, it is common about farms and along streams where scattered trees provide nesting sites. The Eastern Kingbird may be seen here in the summer on the south side of Lake Carnegie, by the pump house in the Wildlife Refuge and near the tennis courts at Princeton High School.

Kingbirds are members of the flycatcher family. The Eastern has a black head, white breast, brown back and diagnostic white band at the end of the tail. The Western has a grey head, olive back, lemon yellow breast and white stripes down each side of the tail, much like the junco. Their habit is to perch on a telephone wire or fence post until a grasshopper or other insect comes by, and then go after it and return, in the manner of flycatchers, to the original perch.

"It's a neat bird to see," said Mr. Southerland enthusiastically, but as he predicted, with rain, snow and colder weather coming in, the bird flew out. Other birders who trooped out over the weekend to the Raymond farm to catch a glimpse of it were disappointed.

Township police, the doors were found in the Carl Mey's Body Shop on Route 130 in Washington Township. The owner, Carl Mey, has been charged with possession of stolen property.

The stolen doors were to be placed on another Fiat which had its doors damaged, the police investigation found.

smashing in the door.

Two 30-inch skyway expansion chambers for a motorcycle, valued at $130, were stolen last week from an unlocked garage at 54 Van Dyke Road. The victim, John Rutter, told police that a piece of pipe needed for the operation of the chambers was left behind. He had placed an ad in a newspaper advertising the chambers and his motorcycle for sale.

STATUE, CHAIR STOLEN

From Tiger Inn. A three-foot bronze statue of a man holding a sword and hammer, and a Victorian carved wooden chair were reported stolen Monday from the main entrance hallway of Tiger Inn, 46 Prospect Avenue.

Police said the statue was valued at $500, the chair at $300. Pfl. Victor Fasanella investigated.

SOLICITOR ARRESTED

For Lack of Permit. A man selling magazines door-to-door last week on Birch Avenue was arrested by Township police, after he admitted that he did not have a solicitor's permit from the Township.

William E. Thomas, 22, of North Amityville, N.Y., was arrested by Pfl. Mario Musao, responding to a call from a Birch Avenue resident. He was later released on $20 bail, pending his appearance to Township court Dec. 15. Police said Thomas was employed by the Free Enterprise Company of Harvey, Ill.

A $50 traveler's check and $20 in cash were taken last week from a student's room in Lockhart Hall on the Princeton University campus. Entry was gained by

BAZAAR SATURDAY

At Stuart School. The annual Christmas Bazaar at Stuart Country Day School of the Sacred Heart will be held Saturday from 10 to 4. In keeping with the international theme, the entertainment offered will feature songs and dances from all over the world.

Beginning at 10:30, and appearing approximately every half hour thereafter, the performers will include the Russian Chorus of Princeton, Dan Skvir, director, the Stuart 4th and 5th grade chorus, Mrs. Kemp director, the Bell Ringers of the First Presbyterian Church, Mr. Loatman, director; and Chinese String instruments played by Dr. Chung Chieh Lee of Princeton University. At this time, 11:30, the Japanese Cherry Blossom Dance will be performed by Stuart's AFS student, Harumi Aoyama and Setsuko Edonyoshi, with Lisa Mann, flute, Itsuyo Ito, piano, and Aiko Maeda.

Beginning at 12 noon, there will be Greek Dancers from the Greek Orthodox Church in Trenton; Jace Bennett, a champion Scottish highland dancer, with commentary by James Hughes; the Mary Stewart Dancers of Kearney; Latvian children's dance group of Newark, the Stuart upper school chorus with Michele NiCastro singing Italian Christmas songs, the High Boot Polka Dancers of Somerset, and the Mary Stewart Dancers of Kearney, again.

TRENTON TRIO CHARGED

In Watch Thefts. Two 14-year old youths and a 10-year old, all Trenton residents, have been charged by Det. Anthony Pinelli, the Township's juvenile officer, with shoplifting 10 digital watches from the A&P market in the Princeton Shopping Center.

The three were apprehended in the shopping center's mall area on Saturday, the day after the theft, by Township police and the store manager. One watch was recovered from one of the suspects, Det. Pinelli said.

One youth was turned over to the N.J. Training School for Boys in Skillman, where he was on a furlough. The other two were taken to the Mercer County Youth House in Trenton. One of the 14-year old youths has a long juvenile record, Det. Pinelli said.

While awaiting custody arrangements in Township headquarters on Saturday, the three managed to escape to the woods outside. They were recaptured a short time later.

REFERENDUM PLANNED

At Women Voters Meeting. The December 13th bond referendum for the renovation of Princeton High School will be among the topics discussed at the next unit meetings of the Princeton Area League of Women Voters.

The meetings, which are part of a current study of Princeton schools by the League, will be held Monday 8 p.m., at 100 Guilck Road, and on Tuesay, 9 a.m., at the United Methodist Church, Nassau and Vandeventer.

Three members of the Bond Referendum Advisory Committee will discuss the $4,366,000 bond referendum which would permit renovation of the high school, and outline the process which will lead to the committee's recommendations.

Members of the League's School Study Committee will highlight the present state of education for the gifted child in New Jersey in relation to the "Thorough and Efficient" law. They will also review the most recent information on Special Services in the Princeton Schools. Rita Ludium and Myrna Jenkins are co-chairmen of the School Study Committee.

Babysitting will be available at the Tuesday morning meeting.

SOUL FOOD PLANNED

Fee Auxiliary Dinner. The American Legion Auxiliary Unit 218, will hold its annual Soul Food Dinner Saturday beginning at 12 noon. The dinner will be served at Post 218 headquarters, 26 Lytle Street.

John McPhee Writes a Book–His 13th–And Takes an intriguing Look at Alaska

The relationship of people to land is the underlying theme of John McPhee's 13th book "Coming into the Country," which was published this week by Farrar, Straus & Giroux. The land is Alaska, a state whose 586,000 square miles is one sixth the size of the contiacatal U S, and the people are the Eskimos, Indians, Aleuts, native whites and renegades from the "Lower 48" who number slightly more than half the population of Washington, D C.

Partly as a result of the oil pipe line that "lies like a thread" across it, vast areas of Alaskan acreage are in the process of being redistributed by act of Congress as wilderness preserves and as allotments to the Eskimos who hunted and fished for generations unhampered by a sense of property and whose new claims will dispossess hundreds of squatters.

Readers of Mr McPhee's previous work will recognize in this longer and broader book the seamless writing and wide-ranging subject matter that characterized the preceding 12 titles. The most recent book was "The Survival of the Bark Canoe", this one begins with a canoe and kayak trip down a river in the Brooks Range, described by the author as "the most isolated wilderness I would ever see." The feeling for flora and fauna that was started ten years ago in his book on the Pine Barrens is here focused on alpine tundra, grizzly bears and caribou.

There is a suspenseful section on being "lost" in a twin engine helicopter carrying the canoers to a new site on the Salmon River, each mountain and stream looking like every other mountain and stream. The second part of the book describes another helicopter trip with members of a committee charged with the selection of a site for a new state capitol.

With bemusement and the artful juxtapositions he made famous in "Encounters With the Archdruid" and the "Levels of the Game" profile on Arthur Ashe and Clark Graebner, Mr McPhee describes the political and social conflicts inherent in moving the capitol from Juneau hundreds of miles north to a more centrally located site in the bush near Anchorage.

Nearly half the book is devoted to the profiles of people for which McPhee is justly famous. These are life size, detailed portraits of trappers, gold miners, cat operators, welfare recipients and early retirees who live along a stretch of the Yukon between a town called Eagle and a town called Circle. Here McPhee is in his element as he chronicles the life stories of these people, why they came into the country and how they have fared since arriving.

After Alaska and a study as penetratingly deep and interestingly presented as this is, one wonders just where Mr McPhee will turn next.

Rape Forum Wednesday

A forum on rape will be held this Wednesday evening at 8 in Wilson Residential College on the south end of the Princeton University campus. All university students and Princeton area residents are invited to attend.

The featured speaker, Ann Miner, will discuss, "Rape: Myths and Realities." She is associated with a rape crisis intervention center at Metuchen Hospital. The forum is the project of Sue Fox, co-ordinator for the Sexuality Education, Counseling and Health Program at Princeton University, and Debbie Borstein, a sophomore and member of the University's Women's Center.

University President William Bowen, other university officials, and members of the Borough and Township police will also attend.

LIVE IN TOWNSHIP?

Budget Talks Scheduled. Leaf vacuuming and more typewriters, additional clerical help and a new police car. The housekeeping items necessary to running a municipality of some 13,000 people, are all in the departmental budgets of the Township, scheduled for discussion next Wednesday, December 7, at 7:30 p.m. in Township Hall.

Last Monday, only five people showed up to hear about joint Borough and Township budgets for such agencies as the recreation department, public library, planning board and health commission.

For these public presentations, public comment is invited. Copies of the departmental budgets for the December 7 meeting are available for study in Township Hall.

WOMEN ARE TARGETS

Of Bogus Doctor Calls. A man calling himself a doctor, telephoning women in the community in regard to a PAP test, is an imposter, Township police warned this week.

Chief Frederick Porter said that the man, who has used the name of "Dr. Abrams," seems to be very familiar with the area. He has also used various other names. "Some of the questions get very personal," continued Chief Porter.

Unless they know the voice of their own doctor, Chief Porter advises women in the area not to answer any medical questions over the telephone. "If in doubt, call your own doctor and then, if necessary, immediately notify the police," he said.

Chief Porter reported that a similar incident of a telephone caller posing as a doctor occurred earlier this year.

MEETING THURSDAY

On Mosquito Problem. Agencies and individuals concerned with control of excessive mosquito build-ups in the Charles H. Rogers Wildlife Refuge are invited to attend a public meeting in Borough Hall Thursday at 2. Arranged by the Princeton Regional Health Commission, it is a follow-up of the one held in August.

It was agreed at that time that a second meeting would be held to clarify procedures, policies and responsibilities in order to prevent, if possible, a recurrence of the mosquito build-up that occurred in late July.

WORKSHOP SET

In Geneology. The Mary Jacobs Library in Rocky Hill is sponsoring a workshop on genealogy on Thursday, December 8, at 7:30. It will be conducted by Eric Greenfeldt of the Princeton Public Library, who will discuss his own experiences and advise those interested in looking for their ancestors.

The workshop is free and open to the public. For further information, call the library at 924-7073.

TREES READY

For Christmas Trimming. Boy Scout Troop 43 will sell Christmas trees again this year in Palmer Square in front of the Post Office. The hours are weekdays from 3 to 5, all day Saturday and from 11:30 to 1:30 on Sundays until Christmas.

The types of trees available are scotch pine and balsam fir.

TWO PARTIES PLANNED

At Bainbridge House. The Historical Society will hold a Christmas open house on Sunday, December 11, from 1 at 5 at Bainbridge House, 158 Nassau Street.

The house will be decorated with Christmas greens and candles by the Garden Club of Princeton Visitors may enjoy refreshments, look at the newly installed exhibition "Fashions from Princeton's Past an Exhibit of Clothing in the Permanent Collection of the Historical Society," and see the recently redecorated book and gift shop

Nostalgia gifts are featured in the shop. For example, there are hand-made clothespin dolls, natural dye wool for knitting and needlepoint kits, patchwork, Victorian paper dolls, reproductions of old children's toys and books. There is also a wide selection of books about Princeton and neighboring communities, famous former residents and historic houses.

Another Christmas celebration at Bainbridge House will take place on Sunday, December 18, from 2 to 4 when the children's museum will hold a Merry Victorian Christmas Party for the community's children.

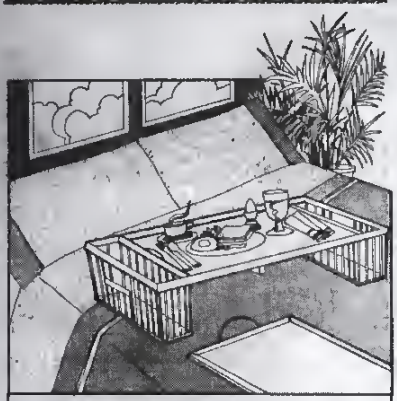
SKATING AVAILABLE

In YWCA Classes. Ice skating lessons for women at Baker Rink are among the many "mini" classes offered by the YWCA during the interval between fall and winter programs

This is the first time the YWCA has acquired time at a Princeton rink for instruction, and classes will be held on five Tuesday, December 6, 13 and 20, January 3 and 10 from 10:30 to 12 noon. Each hour and a half session will consist of a half hour group lesson taught by Connie Jamison, a Canadian Gold Medal figure skater, and one hour of practice. Beginners are encouraged to apply as well as more advanced skaters

---

All YWCA departments have arranged for a variety of activities and classes geared toward the approaching holidays Disco, modern and exotic dance classes are available as well as craft classes in which to learn how to make life-like flowers of wood fiber or easy knitted gifts Three times a week, English as a Second Language will be taught for varying ability levels and will emphasize reading and conversation



The Lovely Luxury of
Breakfast in Bed

Our combination bedtable and serving tray is a practical luxury in today's burried world. The removable tray nests into the bedtable top; the center section can be used flat or raised to three different angles, for writing or reading. In soft white, or to be ordered in colors. $53.

FOR ALL AGES: The Pacific Southern Railway, which operates out of Rocky Hill, will stage its annual exhibition for model railroad fans this weekend and next. Details this page.

RAILWAY TO ROLL

As Charity Benefit. The Pacific Southern Railway, New Jersey's largest HO gauge model railroad, will give exhibitions this weekend and the following weekend. Tickets are $1.50 for general admission and $3 for limited admission, and all proceeds go to charity.

General admission starts at 1 with no reservations. Limited admission shows will be held at 9, 10, 11 and 12 Saturday morning and 11 and 12 on Sunday, and advance reservations are required.

Free parking is available at the Gamma Tech building at the intersection of Route 206 and 518. Free shuttle buses will take spectators to the layout. Free cartoons and railroad movies will be shown, and refreshments will be available.

For further information and ticket reservations call 921-9276 or (201) 536-3402.

PHS STUDENT MOLESTED On Way Home From Dance.

A 16-year-old Princeton High School student was molested on Green Street early Thursday morning while she was returning home from a dance at the school.

Police said the victim, molested by two men, was not injured. "We have descriptions and some leads," commented Chief Michael Carnavale. Det. Timothy Hunzing is continuing the initial investigation made by Pfl. David Alston and Pfl. James Agins.

HYPNOTISM IS TOPIC

Of Library Talk. Vincent Buranelli of 27 Cold Soil Road, Lawrenceville, will speak on hypnotism Thursday at 8 in the public library. His talk is the most recent in the library's "Writers Talking" series.

Mr Buranelli has written and lectured extensively on the art that began with trances induced by the famous Dr. Mesmer. He began as a United Press reporter in Los Angeles in 1941 and after serving in World War II studied for advanced degrees in Dublin and at Cambridge. His work has ranged from journalism for Lowell Thomas to articles for scholarly journals.

His books include biographies of Edgar Allen Poe and Louis IV, the award winning "Josiah Royce" and "The Wizard from Vienna." A forthcoming book, "The Nile," was written in collaboration with his wife, Nan Gillespie.

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED

At Y.E.S. Youth Employment Service (Y.E.S.) has started the fall with the busiest season in many years. Job orders have increased by 50 percent over last year at this time.

As a result, the volunteer staff which works on weekdays from 2:30 to 6 has been swamped. Particularly needed are volunteers to work in the early evening when students are home to receive job offer calls. Also needed are morning and afternoon volunteers, not only to call students, but to check with employers on whether and how students have performed their jobs.

Volunteers also register new students, mail YES information to new employers and check the files for students appropriate to each job. Two fathers could pass a couple of rewarding hours in the office one evening a week or a Saturday morning. As it is, Y.E.S. is paying for the price of success by hiring a university student to come in one evening a week.

In its annual fund drive, to begin in November, Y.E.S. will be asking for assistance, not only in maintaining its office where the vital connection between Princeton employers and students is made, but also for money to further its expanding programs which enrich the working experience of Princeton's young people.

Newsletters are mailed to the students about the responsibilities of employment and about special services open to them. Educational programs include workshops on gardening, party help and babysitting and instruction in filling out applications and other important forms. Volunteers and contributors are urged to call YES at 924-5481 where there is a 24 hour a day answering service, or to write Princeton Youth Employment Service, Inc. at 120 John Street.

TWO NAMED BY SQUAD

As Dispatchers. The Twin W First Aid Squad of West Windsor Township has appointed two new volunteer dispatchers for ambulance transportation.

Isabel Frank will handle calls from Sunday through Wednesday and can be reached at 799-1700 during the day and at 452-8775 in the evenings and on Sundays. Ellen Reed will dispatch transportation calls from Thursday through Saturday and can be reached at 799-2027. The Squad asks that at least 24 hours notice be given in requesting transportation.

LUNCH WITH SANTA

At St. Paul's. St. Paul's School PTA will host a luncheon for Santa Claus and his fans, ages 8 and younger, on Saturday at noon in the basement of St. Paul's Church.

All tickets are $2, and each child or group of children should be accompanied by an adult. Each child will receive a present from Santa Claus, and Mrs. Claus will be on hand with a sack of candy canes for everyone. The luncheon menu includes hot dogs, potato chips, dessert, cookies and beverages.

A gift boutique and bake sale will be held from 3 until 5. Advance reservations may be made by calling 921-6824. A very limited number of tickets will be available at the door.

All proceeds are for the benefit of St. Paul's School.

TALENT SHOW SET

In West Windsor. The West Windsor Recreation Commission will sponsor a Talent Show in two parts for the youth of West Windsor Township.

There will be auditions on December 8 at the Maurice Hawk School beginning at 6:30. The finalists will perform on Friday, January 20, with trophies awarded for the premiere acts. There is no fee to enter.

Youngsters who can sing, dance, or play an instrument are encouraged to come out for the audition. For further information call program supervisor Marilyn Bojarski.

Women's Gifts Are in Infinite Variety as Shopping Season Continues

The end of the Thanksgiving holiday puts Christmas on the doorstep with only three weeks to shop, shop, shop to meet Santa's deadline.

Christmas decorations around the town, Christmas carols in the air, a snap of cold weather cheers shoppers and adds briskness to their footsteps as they search for the perfect gift for everyone on their list.

This week's gift suggestions give special consideration to the women you wish to remember and provide an infinite variety of selections for every age, every role, (and some tempting gifts to give yourself!)

For the Hostess. A pair of Sheffield candlesticks, designed as columns with a square base and a separate bobeche, edged with a beaded design, impart classic beauty wherever they are placed. $65-pair.

12 demi-tasse spoons in Brazilian silver and a larger sugar spoon perk up conversation when after-dinner coffee is served, for each handle bears a different semi-precious stone 13 pieces-$91.

When dinner for 12 is a formal occasion, 12 dinner plates with a gold design on cream colored china, from Ovington of New York set the table with elegance and style. The Silver Shop, 80 Palmer Square.

Crystal dinner bells imported from France and Czechoslovakia in cut patterns or lacy etchings, announce dinner in pleasing tones $8.50 - $30. The Princeton Gift Shop, 13 Palmer Square.

For informal occasions, a patchwork tablecloth made of 5" squares casts a colorful charm. Reverses to a solid color and is machine washable. Square or rectangular sizes, $22.50 - $40. Cabin Creek Quilts, 155 Nassau.

Guests are pampered when served breakfast in bed on a spacious tray of white painted wood in an airy design. When breakfast is over, the tray props up for comfortable reading or writing. $53. The perfect complement for the breakfast tray is a breakfast set in white china by Richard Ginori. $108. Both from LeVake, 54 Nassau.

For the Dressmaker. All purpose scissors by Fiskars of Norway, $9.00, Mark's 6" lightweight scissors of high quality cutlery steel with contour-handle, $8.95, and a selection of Wiss pinking and dressmaking shears make cutting-out easy and give a professional quality to home sewing. The Fabric Center, Montgomery Shopping Center. The Fabric Shop, 14 Chambers Street, also has Fiskars.

Velvets or velveteens make rich, soft dresses or skirts for festive occasions, in rose, purple, light blue, wine, orange, crushed green or crushed gold. $4.99 - $6.49 yard, or choose a sparkling brocade in a gold and black or silver and black flowered design 54" wide, $5.95-yard.

Quilted cotton or cotton and polyester material provides cozy, easy-to-sew long skirts, robes, wraparound skirts, place mats, stuffed toys. Calico patterns in bright colors 45" wide, $2.95-yard. The Fabric Center.

Even the non-sewer can make warm shawls from wool and lightweight shawls for evening wear from Banlon with a minimum of hand-hemming. 100 percent wool, 60" wide, $17-yard; Banlon, 60" wide, $5 yard. Both in the most-wanted colors.

Imported linen tea-toweling can be fringed at each end and requires no sewing at all. Make 2 or 3 for a gift. $1.50-yard.

Children's nighties can be made in a hurry from 100 percent cotton knit in reds, yellows, oranges, pink, coral, blue. Washable. 60" - 64" wide, $5.50 yard.

Poly-filled quilted nylon or cotton chambray are water-repellant and ready to be sewn into warm ski and winter clothes. Reversible colors and prints 45" wide, $6 - $7.50-yard.

Red and green Christmas prints in poinsettia and holly marvel at their beauty. $12.50 and up. Princeton Gift Shop.

Student desk chair in a non-upholstered, synthetic shell with chrome legs in white, gold, reddish-orange. $25. Swivel desk chair on casters has an adjustable back rest and a chrome base. Upholstered in tan or olive vinyl. $60.

Desk chair with arms on a chrome base, swivels and tilts for convenience and comfort. Upholstered in a checked yellow and orange wool blend. Seat and back cushions are nicely detailed with an outline stitch. $178.

A square lamp base carved of wood of several natural colors is reminiscent of Aztec design. White shade 20" high, about 2000. Square white lamp base in broadly corrugated ceramic, 26" high is topped with a white shade. $110. Classics Limited, 83 Railroad Place, Hopewell.

A good line of solid European brass in highly decorative curtain tie-backs, knobs, hookers, handles, brackets, drawer pulls, etc. adds a touch of luxury where used. $1.75 - $12 and up. One of a kind pillows are made from upholstery fabrics at The Tomato Factory, Hopewell.

A pretty little French stove is very charming and at ease in a lady's bedroom or sitting room. Called "Le Petit Godin", it is made of black steel in a cylindrical shape and lavished with lacy designs of enameled cast iron in black with white, brown, cobalt blue, forest green, or black as black. Lift the round top and there's a flat place to put the kettle on for tea, while you watch the fire glow through a mica window. Burns wood or coal and heats a big room. Large - $390, small $334. The Charred Oak Savory at the Tomato Factory, Hopewell.

Round, glazed Mexican tiles with felt covered bottoms are hand-made and hand-painted in many bright colors and designs for coasters, trivets, and plant rests. 4" diameter, $1.60, 6" diameter, $3.50. Matching square planters are $9 - $50.

Oil lamps of unusual contemporary design are hand-blown glass cylinders with an oil font and wick. They burn more brightly than candles and don't drip. Also wind-proof, they are pleasant informal lighting for summer evenings outdoors. $19.50 - $36. The Terra Cotta.

For the Needlepainter, Clayton's Yare Shop, Palmer Square, has a wide variety of articles that can be given a special personality and charm with a panel of needlepoint - the front panel of a suede clutch purse, insert for an oval, rectangular or galleried tray with handle, a denim skirt with panel pocket, $30, small, medium, large, the bib panel of a denim jumper $24.95, small, medium, large.

For the Bride. A unique present for a bride or for an anniversary gift - a European silver marriage cup, circa 1870, in the figure of a woman with a bell-shaped skirt and carrying a little cup above her head. The bride drinks wine from the little cup - the bell-shaped skirt, turned upside down, becomes a larger cup for the groom. Two sizes: small, $40, larger, $90. The Silver Shop.

For a bride's first formal luncheon, exquisite hand-embroidered linen place mats from Portugal. Set of 4 oblong or oval mats, white or ecru, and matching napkins, $28. Stone's Linen Shop, 36 Nassau.

A romantic, scoop-necked gown in nylon crepe with a wide, lace-trimmed flounce around the neckline, has a tiered skirt with lace inserts. White, black. Petite to large, $25.

For the Collector. Almost anything you collect can be framed by Left Gallery, 346 Alexander Street, which has special fan-shaped frames for fans and a wide choice of other frames for preserving and displaying antique lace, embroidery, handkerchiefs, linens.

The silver collector will appreciate a 100 year old Irish plated champagne or wine cooler with lion head handles, gadroon trim and an old family crest on its side. $300. The Silver Shop.

The basket fancier will find a variety of attractive baskets from East Asia and Africa at Iris. Basket lampshades, planters, trays, covered baskets, 2 color baskets from Africa, China and palm leaf shaped fans (35 cents), which can be turned into decorative lampshades. Prices range from $1.50 - $25. Iris, 64 Witherspoon.

Terra Cotta also has a fantastic collection of East Indian, Asian and African baskets, many with covers and some with multi-color designs - trays, hampers, bowls - innumerable shapes and sizes, $1 - 300.

The antique collector will find 21 small shops under one roof at The Tomato Factory, Hamilton Avenue, Hopewell - all specializing in antiques of various classifications and periods.

The downstairs shops have fine furniture in mint condition, such as the tilt-top Queen Anne pedestal table with a single board dish top, circa 1720. $1500.

Country furniture, mostly American - benches, dry sinks, cradles, mirrors, hanging shelves in pine, walnut, mahogany and cherry are usually in good supply. A pie safe with a pierced tin cabinet on a cupboard base and a one piece board on each side is $650.

Old quilts, hand-pieced in traditional patterns are $40 - $300. Two shops have sturdy oak furniture popular with young marrieds and kind to their budgets. One shop specializes in prints, magazine covers and posters by Bradley and Penfield.

Hand-made, wood-working tools - block planes and scribes, early hammers and augers are eagerly sought. Antique baskets can be spotted here and there.

Upstairs, you'll find pressed glass, oil lamps, pewter tablewares, copper pots, crocks, knife boxes, brass candlesticks, Imari plates.

Nassau Inn Looks to Holidays with Variety Of Programs from Gift-Selection to Cooking

The Nassau Inn, under the leadership of Thomas Root os its, manager and president of Palmer Square, Inc., is having a twelve-daye-of-Christmas -celebration -- and more. Experts in Christmae gift selecting, gift wrapping, cooking and home decoration are scheduled to discuss their specialities on many of tbe remaining afternoons until Christmas (See Calendar of tbe Week (10B) for individual lsiings.)

Leading off the four cooking demonstrations was Richard Grausman, a graduate of and American representative for The Cordon Bleu cooking school in Paris, who gave a demonstration Tueaday of two holiday punches and two fancy pastries that could be served on a holiday afternoon. Mr Grausman is a irim and handsome man whe looks to be in his mid-30's and whose other avocation is skiing.

Standing in front of a long, well-lit work lable with a shiny electric stove behind him and a tilted mirror above to give his audience a good view, Mr. Grausman demonstrated the art of making choux pasiry. Forced through a pastry tube and baked, these 1½ inch morsels are called Salambos when filled with a cream filling and dipped into a ceramel glaze, and when filled with ice cream and coated with chocnlate becoma profiiaroles.

Mr. Grausman is a etickler on precise measurements and cleanliness. He believes in weighing ingredients rather than measuring, noting that a cup of flour packed down weighs more than a cup of four freshly aiftad. Samples of profiterolee and authantic Cordon Bleu recipes were passed out in an appreciative audience.

James Bnard is the next cooking expert scheduled in the Inn's Christmas festival. He will discuss and demonetrate Christmaa foode an Saturday at 3 in the Palmer Room. Mr Beard will be followed on Tuesday by Robin Derry, a member af tha Nassau Inn kitchen staff and an area caiierer, who will demonstrate Chrietmae cookies.

The well-known baking expert, John Clancy, will discuss Christmae Baking on Friday, December 9, also in the Palmer Room. All demonstrations are free and epen to the public.

said that his initial planning will be in the area of man-machine interface and control products.

Mr Williamson wos with the Foxboro Company, where over the past nine years, he held menagement positions there firel in research and development and than in marketing. Ons of his responsibilities included the development of that company's Videospec eysiem, on which ha holds patents. He came to Foxboro from the Honsywell Corporetion where he served ae a saninr industrial designer.

William S. Dix Jr. of 264 Snowden Lane has been named an associate with the architectural firm Geddes Brecher Qualls Cunningham, 12 Nassau Street.

Mr Dix received bechelor of arts and bachelor of architecture degrees from Rice University. He has been with Geddes Brecher Qualls Cunningham eince 1968. Currently he is project architect for the proposed Borough project for Princeton Community Housing and a member of the Liberty State Park architectural team.

William H. Boozer, Jr., president of Princeton Savings and Loan, has been reappointed to the economic policy committee of the New Jersey Savings League. He is a resident of Hopewell.

Mel A. Adlerman of Adlerman, Click and Company has been selected for membership in the Kemper Insurance Company's President's Club. Selection for membership is the highest accolade by the Chicago-based Kemper organization for outstanding sales and service accomplishments.

Adlerman, Click has been established in Princeton since September, 1927. Mr Adlerman is a member and past president of the Insurance Brokers Association of New Jersey, and is currently on the Governor's Advisory council to the Commissioner of Insurance. He is also a member of the New Jersey Independent Insurance Agents, the New Jersey Surplus Lines Association, the National Association of Life Underwriters, and the National Association of Insurance Agents.

LET'S TALK ABOUT GYPSY MOTHS

with Sam deTuro

The summer of 1977 marked the return of the highly destructive Gypsy Moth, says Sam deTuro of Woodwinds Ostallalian Increased dramatically over the 1676 growing season, especially in the northern part of the state. Almost 40,000 acres were defoliated in 15 of New Jersey's 21 counties.

Another widespread tree pest this year was the Pin Oak Saw Fly which caused serious defoliation of Pin Oaks across the state. 1955 was the last time this insect was a serious problem. Watch Pin Oaks next year for the possible return of this pest.

There is little economy to be had by saving seeds from favorite plants for planting next year. In fact, the loss could far outweigh the benefits. Plant propagators and breeders spend much time and effort to give certain plants disease resistance. However, this resistance lasts for only one generation in most cases. Therefore, if you want disease free plants you must buy and plant new seeds each year.

Princeton Regional School HIGHLIGHTS

THERE ARE no red carpets to roll out, but everyone is welcome at tonight's open house in the PHS cafeteria at 8:00. The school's PTO and the Bond Referendum Information Committee (BRIC) are combining to sponsor this event - one of a series - so the Princeton electorate can get all the latest in information regarding the December thirteenth vote. Plans that detail the planned renovations and changes will be discussed, questions will be answered, facts, figures and pictures will be available, and a tour of the school itself will be on the evening's agenda. Come and "see for yourself" where improvements in the present facilities will affect education in the future.

BRICKS, mortar and plaster are not the only concerns of the high school, its curriculum committee has just held its first meeting. This group is composed of citizens, students, a member of the Board of Education and school department heads. Their principal task is to review course offerings, class-room procedures and evaluative procedures in preparation for the Middle States Evaluation.

Other committees being formed are Philosophy and Objectives, School and Community; Staff and Administration, School Facilities; Student Activities, Media Services, and Guidance.

Although the first meetings of the groups are not scheduled until 1978, any interested citizen may sign in with Ms. Joyce Warren at PHS or call the office, 924-5601, to register.

THE HIGH School AFS Club is conducting a school and community wide Orange and Grapefruit Sale to raise funds for the American Field Service exchange program. Each year PHS welcomes students from abroad to study here; at the same time, PHS representatives participate in the exchange by spending a semester living and studying overseas.

CONGRATULATIONS to the PHS Soccer team who, for the first time, had a record that took them to the State Finals played at Trenton State. A defeat there by Lawrence makes us No. 2 in the group two standings ... but just wait 'til next year.

LITTLEBROOK students tricked and treated their way to the sum of $375.78 for UNICEF this Hallowe'en - a great way to enjoy a holiday and help others at the same time.

Mrs. Brecht's first graders, not content with imitations, donned aprons and made soup ... turkey soup with vegetables. Applesauce, made with real apples, and cornbread completed the luncheon entree, special cookies were baked by the class for dessert. The result was a delicious, nutritious lunch for which everyone was properly thankful.

WHAT BETTER way to conclude Book Week than to have children take home a sample or two of the real thing? That's what RS students were able to do. During the week-long celebration with authors and their works, pupils brought to school their "outgrown" book treasures for swapping. One room, flanked by a mural and a display of 3-D books constructed by Miss Lydon's class, became the collection center. All types of books - hardbacks, paperbacks, even comics - were sorted by category and stacked on tables for easy access. The students could then read, look, and browse to their heart's delight; book selection followed, when each child could choose several books to take home and call his own. The total number of books was augmented by the generosity of several stores who contributed books for the swapping center.

Phys. Ed. Backs Referendum

To the Editor of Town Topics:

We are responding to a statement made by Mrs Frisch at a public Board of Education meeting on November 22, stating a letter was sent to the Princeton Regional Board of Education from the high school physical education staff indicating the staff's opposition to the School Bond Referendum. Nothing is further from the truth. No letter was ever sent from the physical education staff stating opposition to the bond referendum.

To the contrary, the entire physical education staff is strongly in favor of the school bond issue.

Editor's Note: The letter was signed by Lawrence J. Ivan, Carol W. Parsons, Thomas R. Murray, Joyce O. Jones, Edward Goacham and R. Marc Anderson.

Editor's note: The following reply is from Rosalind Frisch, school board member.

"It is incredible that I must find it necessary to answer this inexplicable statement in explaining my "no" vote (see elsewhere, "Topics of the Town"), I cautioned that there was a possibility that architectural solutions were being given as answers to educational questions, there might be other, less costly but practical solutions.

"I remarked that it was unfortunate that the Citizens Committee was not privy to all the facts, as the school board is constantly receiving new information.

"As an example, I mentioned a communication (which is part of a piece of privileged information given to ALL school board members) in which the high school physical education teachers state that they cannot support the referendum because they feel the existing gym facilities could be considered adequate with a bettar scheduling procedure.

"If more than one million dollars is being requested to this area, would I be a responsible board member in ignore this claim?

"I will be happy to make this information public with the agreement of the high school physical education teachers and the members of the board."

PHS Referendum Backed.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

After some months of extensive analysis and study the Citizens' Advisory Committee on Long Range Planning for the Princeton Regional Schools issued in May 1977 its final report entitled, "Blueprint for Change."

Among its several proposals was the specific recommendation that the "present Princeton High School building should be thoroughly renovated." It was also estimated that the cost for renovation and proposed new construction would total about $ million.

Since the issuance of that report over six years ago

News Of The CHURCHES

UNIONS ARE TOPIC

Of University Conference. The Princeton University Chapel and the C.S. Lewis Society are sponsoring a conference this weekend on labor unions.

Wayne Alderson, forerser vice president- in charge of production at the Pittron Steel Foundry in Pittsburgh, now renamed Bucyrus Erie, and a representative of the United Steel Workers of America, will participate in two seminars Saturday in the Woodrow Wilson School, one in the morning and the other in the afternoon. The conference will begin Friday at 8 with the showing of a movie, "The Miracle of Pittron," in McCormick 101.

The movie was made at the former Pittron Steel Foundry. The miracle refers both to the labor-management relationship after a strike and to an industrial accident which could have been a disaster but was not.

Mr. Alderson was responsible for increasing production by solving the problems of management - labor relations. His method was to organize and lead Bible study and prayer groups for the workers and was subsequently fired. On Sunday at 11 Mr. Alderson and Dean Ernest Gordon will take part in a dialogue sermon in the University Chapel.

BAZAAR SATURDAY

At Pennington Church. The holiday bazaar at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church in Pennington will be held Saturday from 10 to 4 and Monday from 10 to 1.

This year's bazaar will have a British theme. Homemade foods typical of the British Isles will be served at the luncheon, and homemade mincemeat tarts, Yorkshire puddings and marmalades will be on sale at the baked goods stall.

Featured will be plants, woodworking, antiques, pickles, preserves, knitted and crocheted apparel, needlepoint novelties, aprons, Christmas ornaments and handmade dolls and toys. In addition there will be a service auction and a raffle on a handmade afghan.

For the children, Santa will visit from 10 to 1 Saturday and Polaroid pictures with him will be available. Children may do their personal Christmas shopping in the supervised "Santa's Secret Workshop" where gifts for the whole family will be available from 25 cents to $2, gift wrapping included.

There will also be supervised movies and games and a children's book stall. Mr. and Mrs. Robin Forbes-Jones are co-chairmen.

SERVICE SUNDAY

To Celebrate Hanukkah. The Jewish Center will commemorate the Festival of Lights, Hanukkah, on Sunday evening with the lighting of the first candle on the 8-armed menorah.

The holiday signifies the rededication of the ancient Temple in Jerusalem after being desecrated by Antiochus. The eight days are celebrated according to tradition, because after the Maccabees cleansed the Temple, a cruse of oil lasted for eight days, hence the days of lighting of candles. There is an exchange of gifts during this period by families and friends.

A large variety of Hanukkah gifts are available for purchase at the gift shop, 457 Nassau Street.

EVERY AGE LOVES A DOLL: Mrs. Bertha Taeh, at 95 the oldest active member of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church in Pennington, and Laura and Erie Hainz, two of the youngest, hold handmade dolls that will be on sale Saturday and Monday at the bazaar.

BULLETIN NOTES

The Rev. David E. Lindsay will speak at the Christian Center, 223 North Harrison Street, on Sunday at 8:30. A graduate of Wayne State University and the University of Michigan with degrees in engineering, Mr. Lindsey employed as an operations research analyst at Exxon Corporation before entering the full time Christian ministry. He graduated from Princeton Theological seminary, was ordained by the United Methodist Church and is presently serving at the Memorial United Methodist Church in Neptune City.

Services will be lead by Rabbi Melvin J. Glatt at The Jewish Center on Friday evening at 8:15. The Onag Shabbat will be hosted by Mrs. Elias Abelson, Mrs. Burton Baum, Mrs. Philip Carchman and Mrs. Irwin Litt. On Saturday morning services will begin at 10, and Warren Agin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Agin, will be called to the reading of the Torah as a Bar Mitzvah.

OBITUARIES

Paul G. Tomlinson, 80, of 57 Allison Road, died November 26 at his home. He had lived in Princeton for nearly 60 years.

Mr. Tomlinson graduated from Princeton University with the Class of 1909 and from New York Law School in 1911. A director of Princeton University Press from 1918-38, he was a financial writer for various publications, including Harper's, for which he wrote a monthly article for more than 12 years. He was also the author of a number of historical novels for young people.

Mr. Tomlinson was a member of the Borough Board of Health and one of the founders of the Princeton Hospital board of trustees for which he served as secretary for nine years. For several years he was secretary and also a governor of Springdale Golf Club. He served two terms as president of the Nassau Club and was a member of these two clubs and the Nassau Gun Club for over half a century and an honorary member of all three organizations.

Mr. Tomlinson wrote a history of the Princeton Bank and Trust Company which was published in 1934 at the Bank's 100th anniversary. He revised it 22 years later when the Bank moved to its present location. He was the author of histories of the Nassau Gun Club, the Nassau Club and the Trenton Banking Company.

He is survived by his wife, Gabriella Prout Tomlinson, a son, Henry P. Tomlinson of Mantoloking, and a daughter, Mrs. Edward C. Rose Jr. of Princeton; eight grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

A memorial service was held in Trinity Church, the Rev. Rogar Cremer officiating. Burial was in Trinity - All Saints' Cemetery. In lieu of flowers, contributions may be made to Recording for the Blind, 100 Stockton Street, or to S.A.V.E., Small Animal Rescue League, 900 Herrontown Road.

Mrs. Sally E. Hamilton, 81, of Lawrenceville, died November 30 in Princeton Medical Center. Born in Pittston, Pa., Mrs. Hamilton lived in Lawrenceville for the past five years and was a mathematics teacher at the south campus of the Lawrence High School.

She is survived by her husband, James P. Hamilton; three sons, John, James Jr. and William Hamilton, all at home, three daughters, Miss Mary Beth Hamilton, at home, Miss Carolyn Hamilton of Columbus, Ohio, and Mrs. Margaret Munos of Baltimore, Md.; a brother, Joseph Russo of Lake Hopatcong, and a sister, Mrs. Corrine Ciermeleri, of Exeter, Pa.

Mass of Christian Burial was celebrated in St. Anthony's Church in Exeter, Pa.

Mrs. Mabel A. Robertson, 94, of River Road, Belle Mead, died November 28 in Princeton Nursing Home. Born in Peekskill, N.Y., she lived in Belle Mead for the past three years and was a former resident of Merrick, L.I. and Bay Ridge, Brooklyn.

Mrs. Robertson was a graduate of Jamaica Normal School and served as manager of the Methodist Home in Brooklyn. She was active in civic and charitable organizations in Merrick and Brooklyn. She was the wife of James D. Robertson, with whom she celebrated their 73rd wedding anniversary on October 12 and who died October 21.

She is survived by a daughter, Helen E. Robertson of Belle mead, a niece and a nephew.

The service will be held Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Kimble Funeral Home, the Rev. Lee Crandall, pastor of the Griggstown Reformed Church, officiating. Friends are invited to call at the funeral home from 7 p.m. until the time of the service. Private burial will be in Hillside Cemetary in Peekskill.

Mrs. Charlotte West Tuttle of 46 Marion Road West died November 28 in the Merwick Unit of Princeton Medical Center in her 93rd year. She was a resident of Princeton for the past two years and formerly lived in Denver, Colo.

Born in London, England, she came to the United States in 1904 and lived in Burlington, Vt. where she became a children's nurse. She was married in Malta to Freeman Tuttle who died four years after their marriage in 1925.

During her retirement years in Denver, Mrs. Tuttle was an active member of the Mile-Hi Senior Center working with the service group, the helping hand and the drama club.

She is survived by a niece, Mrs. Charles F. Healey of Princeton with whom she lived, and several other nieces, nephews, grandnieces and grandnephews in Indianapolis, Denver and England.

A memorial service will be held Wednesday at 3 in the Niles Chapel of the Nassau presbyterian church, the Rev. Blan C. Aldridge, officiating. Interment will be in the family plot in Mt. Auburn Cemetery in Cambridge, Mass., at the convenience of the family.

several unsuccessful attempts have been made to implement this recommendation. Meanwhile the building has been constantly and increasingly in need of repairs and improvements, and the costs for this needed work are mounting each month of further delay. In fact, much less can now be accomplished for the same number of dollars than when the report was issued.

As members of this former Citizens' Advisory Committee we urge the citizens of the Princeton community to support the proposed bond issue to be presented to the voters for ratification on December 13 so that the necessary work on the Princeton High School building can be completed as soon as possible.

Editor's Note: The letter was signed by Mrs. Sherman Bates, David J. Brodsky, E. Alden Dunham, Mrs. T. Peirce Hunter, Mrs. C. Harry Kahn, Mrs. Gordon H. Mack, Samuel E. Nini, Albert H. Price, John C. Sapoch, William K. Selden and Benjamin K. Silverman.

Friends, Firemen Thanked.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Princeton showed again last week that it is a community with a heart. The response of many people — friends, strangers, and particularly neighbors in the Mountain Avenue area — to our difficulties following the fire in our home was thoughtful and caring. Thank you, one and all.

A word, too, about the fire companies whose quick response probably prevented a total loss and whose service was both professional and sympathetic.

Praise for SAVE.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Recently I moved from Hopewell and had to find new homes for two of my four young cats. It is because of Jeanne Graves of SAVE (Animal Rescue League of Princeton) that two happy area families have adopted two even happier cats!

SAVE is primarily concerned with the placement of stray cats and dogs. These homeless animals are given a thorough medical examination by the resident vet. Treatment includes a four-in-one vaccination and, if needed, even worming. If the cat or dog is not claimed after seven days, and if the animal in all ways has the makings of an excellent pet, it is put up for adoption. No healthy, adoptable dog or cat is destroyed at SAVE.

Jeanne Graves observes the dog or cat, plays with it, pets it, watches its reactions in children and others. She determines its character and needs so that she can place it in a family where it will truly belong. Mrs. Graves will also help owners find new homes for pets if they will keep them in their own homes until a new place is found. She notes that neutered pets are more easily placed in new homes because they are usually better adjusted and less likely to wander.

Let's Use Our Sunlight Better!

Today people are trying to conserve energy and, wherever possible, to use natural resources. Wasco Skywindows are right in step. Since they are aimed at the source of natural light, they are 5 times more effective than wall windows. In a room with Skywindows you will not need to turn on electric lights as often. If you are building a house or adding a new room you will need fewer wall windows, which really saves as heat. So use our sunlight better...after all, it's free.

HOUSE OF THE WEEK

STATELY CLASSIC COLONIAL...Located in an area of shady streets, handsome houses and quiet convenience in the sought after section of western Princeton, a house of this quality rarely becomes available. The house is comfortably sized, but not overwhelming. A gracious front to back slate entry hall, library, living room, dining room, screened porch, kitchen, butler's pantry and powder room comprise the first floor. The master bedroom with sitting room and bath plus three other family bedrooms and bath complete the second floor. The third floor of three rooms and bath is a marvelous teenage hideaway. Add to this a panelled playroom in the basement, charming two-story guest cottage, magnificent pool landscaped for privacy, two car garage and you have a perfect family home. $215,000

UNDERSTATED ELEGANCE

Early occupancy is possible for this gracious, easily-maintained solidly-built brick slate-roofed two-story home with attached two-car garage. The wide entry leads to a step-down living room with fireplace, bookshelves and French doors leading to a secluded bluestone terrace. The formal dining room and breakfast-garden room also overlook the garden. There is an unusual study with brick wall and fireplace, plus a large family room that is separate yet convenient, with its own staircase to the attractive functional kitchen. Upstairs are four bedrooms, two with fireplaces, and two with private baths. There is a total of 3½ baths, plus new central air conditioning $189,000

RIVERSIDE

One of Princeton's most sought-after neighborhoods is the site of this attractive home. Highlights include four bedrooms and 2½ baths. There's a fireplace in the living room for cozy evenings and a screened porch and central air conditioning for balmy nights. Professionally landscaped lot $126,000

INDOOR POOL

Unusual home in the "Cherry Brook" section of montgomery Township, just north of Princeton, also features four bedrooms, 2½ baths and two fireplaces $84,900

4 BEDROOM RANCH on a ½ acre lot near express bus route

194 Nassau Street 921-6060
Member of Multiple Listing Service

THE COUNTRY LIFE BECKONS YOU to this saltbox colonial set on a private acre in Montgomery Twsp. The large entry foyer to either the formal living room on your left or the family room on your right. Both are huge but cozy on a winters eve, with fireplaces of their own. Olympic-sized kitchen serves a politicians family or the gourmet cook. An elegant dining room with French doors to the patio completes the main floor. Upstairs to the 3 childrens bedrooms with bath, plenty of closets and storage for all toys, books or hobbies. The master suite has 2 walk-in closets and its own full bath and a room over the garage awaits completion just off the master bedroom. A full attic rests beneath the slate roof. Outside is a covered porch along with a large brick patio, planted gardan and completely landscaped. An unbelievable bargain at $139,900
Call os this morning. Call the movers after lunch.

AROUND THE TURN OF THE 18TH CENTURY neighboring landholders probably warmed their feet at the fireplace of this charmer. The good spirit still abounds and with a little love this could be the showcase for your antiques. Catch dinner in your own trout stream or hunt deer in your own backyard. Your own kennel holds the hounds. 5 bedrooms hold a brood of any size or board your out of town guests in complete harmony. This one will cast a spell on you. Home, kennel, stream and 9 acres in the Sourland Hills for $88,500

HURRAY, THIS ONE WON'T LAST LONG. Fresh on the market is this 2 bedroom retreat with living room, bath and eat-in kitchen. A 2 car garage patio and nearly 3 acres makes it hard to believe at only $45,000

From Weather-Stripping to Button-Sewing, Handy Andy Service Helps Senior Citizens

Button-up weather is upon us, for body and dwelling

But if you desperately need that top coat button and can't see well enough to sew it on, or if you're a man brought up to leave the sewing to the women . .

Call the Handy Andy Chore Service And not only buttons but storm doors, too, or a leaky faucet.

Handy Andy has been created by the Princeton Homemaker-Home Health Aide Service to provide minor repair service to those over 60 All you do is call 924-5731. The fee is $2.00 an hour, but if you can't afford that much, you may pay on a sliding scale.

Two "Handy Andy-Handy Anne" workers will do the repairs for you."Handy Andy" is Simon Blechman, a retired grocery-store owner from Baltimore who now lives in Twin Rivers "Handy Anne" is Mary Harrell, life-long Princeton resident who has been sewing ever since she began making doll-clothes

As the Thermometer Drops. Winterizing is a busy part of Mr Blechman's life these days. He installed weather-stripping for an elderly couple concerned about fuel bills as well as drafts, and for one home-owner living alone, he wrapped up all the windows in heavy plastic sheeting, snug as can be.

"I've always been handy," he said the other rew grey day, as he planed down a warped storm door.

Mary Harrell recalls with warm pleasure the lining she replaced a week or so ago in an elderly man's favorite sports jacket.

"Why, I haven't seen fabric like that in years!" she exclaimed, "He'd had that jacket for about 50 years You can't buy fabric like that today.

"It was quite a job, replacing the whole lining But his wife wasn't able to do that kind of work, you know I put in the lining and then I darned the jacket itself, right there at the edge of the sleeve where it had worn a little

"And it made me feel so good, within myself He did treasure that jacket so!"

If you call for sewing assistance, Mrs. Harrell prefers that you provide the materials yourself--buttons, tape, zippers or whatever. However, if you're house-bound, she will do the shopping for you.

Stats Funds Used. Responding to an urgent home-repair call, Mr. Blechman plugged up holes where pipes go through, to keep the pipes from freezing. He also has repaired porch steps, and a couple of attic ladders.

Salaries for Mr. Blechman and Mrs Harrell are paid by the state under Title IX, the Homemaker-Home Health Aide Service bought Mr. Blechman's tools.

By retaining these two handy people, the service provides help for the elderly and also gives work to a pair of retired people The Youth Employment Service (YES), working with the Committee on Aging of the Council of Community Services, has started a project to find part time jobs for people over 62, but it's not an easy project to launch.

"We have more job offers for older people than people who want them," says Janet Pearson, Community Services' director "Mature workers are regarded as more reliable by business firms--the absentee rate is less, they come in on time, and so on We get requests for typing, filing, assembly work, care of children, but not many takers."

Many retired people don't want to be tied down, many think the work that is offered is demeaning, when they remember the kind of work they retired from

There is also a suspicion that companies think they can get elderly workers for lower pay And if you take a job with a company, your earnings are automatically reported to Social Security, something you watch pretty closely if you are retired and collecting Social Security

Nobody knows how many people do Social Security, women chiefly, have a flourishing baby-sitting business, strictly cash, with no report to Social Security at all.

If you are over 62 and would like to be considered for a part-time job, you may sign up through the office of the Council of Community Services at 924-5865

Meanwhile, keep the Handy Andy Chore Service in mind. Nothing is too small, even that one essential button, or the new washer for the dripping hot-water faucet You'll be warmer all winter if you give them a call.

—Katharine H Bretnall

KEEP OUT THAT WIND! When this wooden storm door warped in all the damp weather, it wouldn't stay shut properly and the homeowner was afraid it might blow off in a stiff wind. A call to the Handy Andy Chore Service for senior citizens brought Simon Blechman, who planed the door and made it snug again.

DURING "CHRISTMAS DINNER": The 90-year life span of a single family is the time span in "The Long Christmas Dinner," one of Thornton Wilder's short plays in "3 by Thornton Wilder," opening this Thursday at McCarter. Shown in this scene are James Noble as Cousin Brandon, Karl Light in the role of Roderick, Carolyn Coates as Lucia and Diana Crane cradling the next diner at the next dinner. (Bill Moore Photo)

READY FOR WILDER

At McCarter. When Thornton Wilder's three one-acters move onto the McCarter stage as the third production in the current drama season, audiences may recall that the playwright--who died two years ago this December--had several associations with the Princeton area.

From 1921 to 1928, he taught French at The Lawrenceville School while he earned his masters at Princeton University. During those years, he wrote the novel "The Bridge of San Luis Rey," that won him the Pulitzer Prize in 1928, his play, "Our Town" had its world premier at McCarter.

The first of the three one-act plays assembled under the title, "3 by Thornton Wilder," is "The Happy Journey to Trenton and Camden," written during the late 1920s and early 1930s. In this brief sketch, a family travels by car through New Jersey to visit a married daughter, and Wilder uses the bare stage and minimal props he was later to employ in "Our Town."

"Queens of France," second in the group, is set in New Orleans after the Civil War. It dramatizes the way an elegant swindler robs gullible women of their money, yet makes them feel that their empty lives contain something of importance.

The final play, "The Long Christmas Dinner," takes a typical American family through 90 years, all within the context of a continuing feast whose diners come and go as they came and went through life.

"3 by Thornton Wilder" will open Thursday, December 1 at 7:30. After the performance of Tuesday, December 13, director Michael Kahn and members of the cast will join with the audience in a discussion of the production.

ceton's production, given each year by the Princeton Ballet Society and McCarter, will be danced four times at McCarter and once in Trenton at the War Memorial.

McCarter presentations are scheduled for Tuesday, December 20 and Friday, December 23 at 7 p.m., and Wednesday and Thursday, December 21 and 22 at 4:30 p.m. The Trenton presentation will be Sunday, December 11 at 2:30 p.m.

Two guest dancers from the American Ballet Theatre will appear this year in key roles. They are Starr Danian, featured in the film, "The Turning Point," which is about ballet, and John Pinz. Mr. Pinz will dance the role of the Cavalier and Ms. Danias will be the Sugarplum Fairy.

A new Snowflake pas de deux, created by Alexei Yudenich of the Pennsylvania Ballet, will be featured this year, and the Ballet Society has all-new costumes for the second act.

Audree Estey, director of the Society's production, children play children's roles, adults play adults--and even parents play parents.

DANCE, FROM BALI

With Featured Dancer. A 13-year-old youth who has been called "the Barisynthov of Balinese dance" will be in the troupe when the Dancers and Musicians of Bali come to McCarter. The performance will be on Monday, December 12 at 8 p.m.

The youth is Wayan Pasek Yusabawa, and like the other dancers he comes from the village of Sabatu on the island of Bali. Dancers and musicians perform under the direction of the French ethnomusicologist Jacques Burnet.

In Bali, dance is an offering to the gods and is not regarded as separate from music and theatre; on the contrary, all three are closely related and mutually interdependent.

Each dancer assumes a character and the movement that accompanies it. The chief female--demon or lady--is always refined. There are kings and queens, monsters and monkeys, warriors and even bumblebees, all familiar folk figures to the Balinese.

The program for McCarter audiences will include masculine dances called "Baris," feminine dances in the style called 'Redjang, a templa ritual known as "Sikyan" and a demon play, "Calon Arang."

A full "gamelon" orchestra of percussion instruments will accompany the dancers.

FROM MOREAU

"Lumiere." Jeanne Moreau's first film as a director will be screened four times next week as part of the Movies-at-McCarter series. Showings will be in McCosh 10 on the University campus Tuesday and Wednesday, December 6 and 7 at 7 and 8:45 p.m. each night. Tickets may be purchased at the McCarter box-office the day of the showing, and one hour before the showing at McCosh.

In "Lumiera," Moreau presents the story of a film star and described as "queen bee and earth mother," and the four actresses who work with her. One is a friend who left acting to raise a family; another is a young actress who has shed the obligations of parenthood and marriage to pursue a career. There is a Bardot-style sex kitten, a macho American film star (Keith Carradine) and Moreau herself, ravaged by time but still moving from lover to lover.

"DUMBO"!

Welcome Back, Walt Disney. Parents who saw "Dumbo" when they were kids, will make sure their own kids see the Walt Disney film when it plays McCarter Saturday, December 10 in two showings.

The "Specially for Kids" series will show "Dumbo" at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. Single tickets are available through the box-office ($21 $700) if you don't belong to the Series.

The flying elephant with the magic feather, and his faithful mouse friend haven't changed a bit.

"RED RYDER"

On Intime Stage. A Vietnam veteran, brought up with traditional American values but caught in the turbulence of the '60s, is the protagonist in "When You Coming Back, Red Ryder?", which Theatre Intime will present for two week-ends starting Thursday, December 8.

Teddy, the veteran, wanders into a peaceful roadside diner in New Mexico in the late 1960s, bent on robbery. But it becomes more than a robbery, as Teddy tries, sometimes through the medium of violence to shake the complacency of those he encounters in the diner.

Director Chris Baumer--producing director of Princeton Inn Theatre--is directing a cast led by Jed Rubenfeld as Teddy. Other parts are played by David O'Meara and Elizabeth Pedersen, both of whom have appeared before in Intime productions.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday curtain-time is 8:30. The Sunday curtain is 7:30 p.m. Reservations may be made at 452-6151 between 1 p.m. and 8 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

ON INTIME STAGE: Teddy, played by Jed Rubenfeld, forces Cheryl (Sonia Sultan) to dance with him in this scene from "When You Coming Back, Red Ryder?", due on the Murray Theatre stage next Thursday, December 8 for a two week-end run by Theatre Intime actors. Greg Dale is the onlooker in this scene.

GIVE ME THE MOON

Thurber's Fantasy for the Young. "Many Moons," the gentle James Thurber fable about the yearning of a young princess for the moon, will be offered twice this week-end at the Princeton Community Players' theatre, 171 Broadmead, in a Players' production.

Curtain-times are 11 a.m. this Saturday and 2 p.m. Sunday. It will also be presented Wednesday, December 7 at 2 p.m.; Saturday, December 10 at 11 a.m. and Sunday, December 11 at 2 p.m. Tickets, at $1 for children and $2 for adults, may be reserved at 921-6314.

Princess Lenore will be played by Beth Ellis, and Robert Watson will be her father, the King. Rachel Jacobs plays the King's Jester, who comes up with the answer everyone has been seeking.

Others in the cast are Lisa Watson as the Nurse, Martin Spaats as the Chamberlain and Mark Pinto (Wizard), Bruce Malla (Mathematician), Carrie Jacobus (Cynthia) Maryanne Ernst (Parretta), Amber Watson (Goldsmith's daughter) and Lisa Patrick (Moon dancer).

Debbie Bellow is directing. Her husband, Ken Junkins, has designed the set.

"A TWILIGHT"

At Inn Theatre. A comedy about two mimes who happen upon a pile of misplaced props, is the next offering of actors in The Princeton Inn Shakespeare Players. The comedy, "A Twilight," by Billy Aronson, will be given Friday, December 2 at 8:30, Saturday December 3 at 10:30 and the following weekend on Wednesday, December 7 at 8:30, Thursday, December 8 at 10:30, Friday, December 9 at 8:30 and Saturday, December 10 at 10:30. All performances will be at Princeton Inn College.

After the discovery of the props--to get back to the plot outline--the two mimes arrive at a startling conclusion: they have voices! After a time, they are, in the words of Inn Theatre, "making arrangements out of bowling pins and jelly--and each other's personalities," wrapping themselves together with yarn and finally taking a daring first step toward "a relationship."

Mark Rhodes is directing.

BACH FOR CHRISTMAS

Four Oratorio Sections. The All Saints Choir with a full orchestra, will present parts one, three, four and six of J S. Bach's Christmas Oratorio on Sunday, December 11, at 8 p m in All Saints Church. The church is on Ven Dyke and Terhune Roads in Princeton.

Devtd Agler will conduct, and the choir is rehearsing with Frauke Haaseman, an oratorio singer in her native Germany who has come to Princeton this year to join the faculty af Westminster Choir College. At the college, she is preparing the Westminster Choir to record the six J.S Bach motets under Wilhelm Ehmann of the Westphalian Kanturei.

Ms Hesseman will also be an alto soloist in the All Saints concert. Other soloists will be Sharon Alexander, soprano; Lole Laverty, alto; John McLain, tenor; Larry Speakman, bass and John Woodard, bass.

Each of the Christmas Oratorio parts to be sung by the Choir is complete in itself, and was originally intended by Bach to be performed on a separate day during the Christmas season.

Part One, first performed December 25, 1734, tells of the coming of Mary end Joseph to Bethlehem and af the birth of Christ. Part Three follows the shepherds to the manger. Part Four concerns the coming of the Christ Child, as foretold by the angel of the Annunciation and Part Six describes the visit of the Wise Man in the manger, their departure and the future salvation of mankind.

Tickets for the concert are at Hinkson's, 82 Nassau, and will be available at All Saints on the evening of the concert. Additional information may be obtained by calling 921-8586.

CONCERT PLANNED

By Youth Orchestra. The first Mercer County Symphonic Orchestra concert of the 1977-78 season will be presentad on Wednesday, December 7 at 8 to the Kirby Art Center of the Lawrenceville School.

Dr Matteo Giammario will conduct the youth orchestra in Borodin's "Polovetzian Dances," Rimsky-Korsakow's "Le Coq d'Or" end Franck's "Symphony in D Minor."

The orchestra is sponsored in part by the Mercer County Park Commission, the Mercer County Cultural and Heritage Commission, The Lawrenceville School, The Music Performance Trust Funds, American Federation of Musicians, Local 62, Trenton, The Mobil Foundation, Inc. and by community commercial and individual contributions. The concerts are free.

MADRIGALS SUNDAY

In Alexander Hall. The Princeton Madrigal Society, under the sponsorship of the Friends of Music, will give a free concert on Sunday at 3 in Alexander Hall.

Peter Urquhart will direct the 18-member mixed vocal group, six instrumentalists (recorders, viola, violin, cello, piano and harpsichord) and five soloists. The program which will include plain-chant from the 11th century, works by Dufay, Isaac, Palestrina, "Beatus Vir" by Monteverdi, songs by Weelkes, Des Pres, Distler, two quartets by Brahms and three Appalachian Folk Songs, arranged by Mr Urquhart.

Members of the group include Princeton end Westminster Choir students, alumni and townspeople. Mr Urquhart graduated from Princeton University in 1974 and is currently finishing his master's program in choral conducting at Westminster.

TWO TO PERFORM

Jazz Themes on Program. Jazz pianist Jeffrey Pressieff '78, and Joseph De Frisco '78, bass, will give a free concert on Sunday, December 4, at 3 in the rehearsal room at the Woolworth Center of Musical Studies, an the University campus.

The two Princeton seniors, sponsored by the Friends of Music, will perform piano improvisations on familiar and original themes and piano and bass duets. Mr Pressieff, a native of Merrick, N.Y., is majoring in music and is a member of the Princeton University Jazz Ensemble and Jazz Quartet. Mr De Frisco, Jr., comes from Bethpage, N.Y., and is also a member of the Jazz Ensemble and Jazz Quartet and has performed in numerous freelance engagements.

NEW MUSIC GROUP SET

For Second Concert. The New York New Music Ensemble will give its second free concert this season at Woolworth Center on Friday at 8 30 sponsored by the Friends of Music.

The ensemble was founded in 1975 by six young Juilliard-trained musiciane to offer performances of classic 20th Century works and to provide public hearing of new works. The Ensemble is associated with Princeton University's Music Department and will serve as performing participants in the pre-seminar on techniques of composition. They will perform works by Trombly, Hoffman, Babbitt, Kim, Edwards, Berger and Eisler.

The group will be conducted by Robert Black who teaches in New York, and at Princeton University and the Westminster Choir College. .

PERFORMANCE PLANNED

By Jazz Ensemble. The Princeton University Jazz Ensemble will give a concert Saturday, December 10, at 8 in Alexander Hall. Under the direction of a new conductor, Paul Jeffrey, the two big bands will perform the music of Duke Ellington, Phil Woods, Thad Jones, Don Menza, Frank Foster and others. The concert is free and the public is invited.

The Jazz Ensemble is a student-run organization financed in part by money raised by playing for dances. It was founded four years ago and has since been featured with such guest artists as Lew Soloff and Benny Carter.

Mr. Jeffrey has performed with contemporaries such as Thelonius Monk, Charlie Mingus, Dizzy Gillespie and

DANCE WORK PLANNED

At Robeson Center. The Paul Robeson Cultural Arts Center will present a dance production this weekend by the Olubayo Dancers entitled "Being a Black Woman."

There will be two performances, one on Friday and the other on Saturday at 8 in the auditorium of the Arts Center, 102 Witherspoon Street. Admission is $2 for adults, $1.50 for students and $1 for children and senior citizens. For ticket information call 924-0806 or 924-0027.

FIRST ONE-ACTS READY

At Princeton High School. The Princeton High Drama Club will present a series of four student-directed and student-produced one-act plays to be performed in the band room. Two plays will be presented this Friday and Saturday at 8, and another two on December 16 and 17.

The first is a play by Arthur Kopit, "Sing to Me Through Open Windows." Kathy Boonin will direct, and the cast includes Dan Klatz, Moira Rouse and John Tenney. "The Bald Soprano," by Eugene Ionesco, stars Elizabeth Carothers, Curtis Davidson, Jon Diamon, Carroll Dunham, Debbie Hollander and John Keane and is being directed by Amy Goldstein.

The next two plays, which will be performed in two weeks, are "Lemonade" by James Prideaux and William Saroyan's "Hello Out There." Dina Blanc will direct Leila Elmaghraby and Ali Henderson in "Lemonade," and Anne Fenton will direct the Saroyan work in which David Amarel, Janet Bushnell, Vicky Heacock and David Hollander star.

Tickets are $1 and are available at the door.

"OKLAHOMA" DUE

At Peddie School. The Peddie School Dramatic Society will present "Oklahoma" on December 8, 9 and 10 at 8 in Geiger-Reeves Hall on the Peddie Campus, South Main and Ward Streets, Hightstown.

This is the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical which ran for over five years on Broadway and was made into a successful movie with Shirley Jones and Gordon MacRae. The show is full of well-known songs such as "Oh, What a Beautiful Morning," "The Surrey with the Fringe on Top" and "People will Say We're in Love."

Playing the principal roles will be Cathy Niederberger as Laurie Williams, Kurt Bikderback as Curly McLain, Margaret Selecky as Aunt Eller, and Kathy Kutalek as Gertie. The production is under the direction of Jeffrey R. Holcombe with musical direction by Francis A. Towne and Michael Imperiale. The choreography is by Rosemary Korzon and the set design by Joe Maressa and Paul Faloona.

Tickets are available at $2.50 at the door.

NEW PLAY TO OPEN

At Paul Robeson Center. "Toe Jam," a three-act play by Elaine Jackson, will open Thursday, December 8, at the Paul Robeson Cultural Arts Center. Tickets are on sale at $2, adults; $1, students; and 50 cents for children.

The play tells of a young black girl, Xenith, struggling to become a star in the world of drama, dream complicated when her mother demands that she get married. The problems that evolve from this conflict provide Xenith with an opportunity to move from her fantasy world as a playwright in the reality of black womanhood.

The play will be given December 8, 9 and 10 at 8 p.m. For tickets, call 924-0806 or write to 102 Witherspoon Street.

Music in Princeton

"Illinois" Jacquet. He is deeply committed to jazz education and started a jazz program at Hartford College and has taught at Jersey City State, Rutgers and Columbia. He is also responsible for a workshop big band at Juilliard, the first ever at that institution.

Also a composer and arranger, Mr. Jeffrey has recorded three albums under his own name and arranged all but one of the tunes on the latest Mingus album. In philosophy he eschews the electronic instruments he feels are destroying modern jazz and for the most part concentrates instead on making a big band swing.

TO SING MACHAUT MASS

At Choir College. The music of Guillaume de Machaut will be used in the celebration of a special Christmas Mass in Bristol Chapel on the campus of Westminster Choir College on Sunday at 8 p.m. Father Gerard Farrell, O.S.B., will be the celebrant and mass will be in Latin according to the new order of Vatican II. The public is invited.

Machaut is considered by musicologists to be the greatest musician of the French Ars Nova of the 14th century and the mass to be heard, the earliest complete setting of the ordinary of the mass by a known composer. The music will be sung, chanted, and accompanied by ancient instruments in a new transcription from original notation by William Dalglish, assistant professor of music history at Westminster.

It is thought that Machaut died in 1377 — making this the 600th anniversary of his death.

The work is also the first known complete mass in four parts — two duets — upper duet for soprano-alto and lower duet for tenor-bass. A special group of 20 singers conducted by Denoin Sbrock will be joined by instrumentalists for the performance.

AUCTION SUNDAY

To Aid Children's Concerts. An auction will be held for the benefit of the free children's concerts of the Greater Trenton Symphony Orchestra on Sunday starting at 2 at the Trenton Country Club. Sponsored by the Symphony Association, these concerts offer the children of Mercer and Bucks counties symphonic music and a chance to see the workings of a symphony orchestra.

Porcelain by Cybis and Isparsky, art works, a fishing trip, a cocktail party, a consultation with a well-known decorator as well as donations from merchants in the area are among the items to be auctioned.

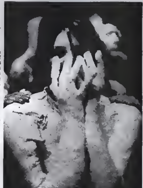
ART. In Princeton

A WORLD OF PLASTER

At Squibb Gallery. The Human image has been one of the artists' major themes from the time man made his first simple markings. It has been used for romantic presentations, religious messages evocative portrayals and visual propaganda. Within this century the body has been fragmented, reassembled, revised for various poetic purposes and occasionally defaced in order to implement an artistic theme.

During the past decade, the literary and poetic reaches of both two and three dimensional figurative art has been further extended by new visual syntax. The combinations of innovative materials and new and fragmented imagery, new artistic styles and statements have extended the artist's vocabulary to allow the creation of visual expressions that appear more profound in both form and the development of content.

In her current exhibition of plaster and burlap figures, Carol Parker has combined traditional concepts with a newer visual idiom and extended the range of expression possible using the figurative image. A phalanx of plaster and burlap figures are clustered within the large open spaces of the E.R. Squibb Gallery on the Princeton-Lawrenceville Road where they create their own dynamic among the architectural harmonies.



HELLO, CAROL! Sculptor Carol Parker – those are HER hands on the plaster shoulders – views the gallery at Squibb from a vantage point behind one of her own fragmented white plaster and burlap figures. The life-size figures, 30 of them, stand and leap, dance and stride across the gallery, right up to and through the outside glass walls to the terrace. It's all in good fun. Squibb Gallery is on Route 206, the hours are 9 to 4:30 weekdays, closed Saturdays, with 1-5 Sunday hours and until 9 p.m. Fridays.

The grouping includes fragmented anatomical sections in combination with entire figures. Faces are frequently partially detached, bodies are not always complete. The figures seem frozen in their incompleteness carrying a sense of their own disintegration. They are hollow creations with their structure, allowing partial views of empty insides.

Structural variety contributes to the impact of the plaster community. Incomplete human representations are combined with finely rendered anatomical detail. Coarse surfaces contrast with smooth and shadow interacts with light, providing an aura of stress and motion while harmonies are created through the careful staging of the many forms.

The plaster population seems to be reaching out to the viewer, offering a statement about art and life. Although some whimsey is present in clownish acrobats and some playful peeping toms, the structural gaps and visual pauses reflect larger themes. It becomes imperative to consider these hollow creatures, often faceless, frequently only partially there. One must determine whether they are unfinished or, having been thought whole, are now unable to sustain their structural integrity.

Like all poetry this collection is a highly subjective experience. It has much to say about space, art and life but the precise nature of the statement must be determined by the observer.

At Gallery 100. Still life and landscape painting by Nancy O'Connor demonstrate this artist's interest in light and hue. Acrylics rendered in a painterly fashion both reflect and intensify color interaction and the resulting harmonies that are to be found in the familiar. O'Connor responds creatively and sensitively to her subjects, which are predominately simple but pleasing elements of everyday life.

Flowers, fruit chairs, tables and other interior elements are interpreted for the viewer allowing the sharing of the artist's response to her themes. Her ability to create rich and complex color relationships is complemented by well developed compositions. The representational works function as pattern and design creating a rich viewing experience.

A collection of small ink drawings is included. Finely rendered studies are developed with the same

The Lawrenceville Elementary School PTA will hold an indoor flea market Saturday from 9 to 4 at the school on Craven Lane. Tables are available at $10 or 2 for $15. There will be refreshments and a bake sale. All proceeds will benefit programs for children at the school.

For further information call 896-2001.

The Friday Club of the YWCA will meet Friday for lunch at 12:30. Barbara W. Dauma, director of the YWCA health, physical education and recreation programs, will speak on "Heart Health and Exercises for the Back." Those needing rides may call the YWCA, 924-4825 before 11 Friday.

The Women's College Club will meet Monday at 1:30 in All Saints' Church, Van Dyke Road. Mrs. Lucy Caldwell, widow of Princeton football headcoach Charles Caldwell, will talk on "The Other Side of Vietnam." Mrs. Caldwell received the Dickey Chapelle Award in recognition of her contribution to the morale, well-being and welfare of the Marines in Vietnam over several periods of service in the 1960's.

Former U.S. District Court Judge Arthur S. Lane will be the guest speaker Sunday at 9:15 at the meeting of the Lawrenceville Men's Breakfast Club in the dining center of the Lawrenceville School. He will speak on his experiences as a judge and as a past vice president of Johnson & Johnson.

The Very Rev. Msgr. Thomas J. Frain, pastor of St. Ann's Church in Lawrenceville, will give the invocation. Dickey Dyer III, a past president of the Club, will introduce Judge Lane, and Lawrence F. Eldridge, president, will conduct the meeting. All men, regardless of religious, racial, political or professional affiliation, are invited.

Reservations at $2.50 per person may be made by calling Tom Tilton at 896-0244 or the Lawrenceville Presbyterian Church, 896-1212, by Thursday.

Harriet C. Williams

The Business and Professional Women's Club has awarded it 1977 tuition grant to Harriet C. Williams, a BPW member and a member of the teaching staff of the Princeton Regional Schools currently on leave of absence. The grant will assist her in pursuit of a master's degree in administration, planning and social policy at Harvard University which she expects to receive in June, 1978.

Gloria Seitz was chairman of the scholarship committee.

The Newcomers Club of the YWCA will have its annual Christmas luncheon on Thursday, December 8, in the Prince William Room of the Nassau Inn. A social hour, beginning at 11:30 will precede the luncheon. Guests are welcome.

Songs of the season, in a group sing-along, will follow, led by Janet Oesterling with piano accompaniment by Betty Stoloff. For further luncheon information and reservations, call Mimi Middaugh, 799-3135, by December 1.

The Newcomers Club is open to all women who have lived in the area served by the Princeton YWCA for two years or less. A nursery for children aged one to five is available for all Newcomer activities. For membership information, call Elaine McPartland, 921-1669 or Brenda Powers at 921-7241.

Princeton Chapter of Deborah will hold its Christmas Party on December 13 at 8 in the First National Bank of Central New Jersey, Washington Street, Rocky Hill.

All members and the many new members who joined the group during 1977 are invited. There will be refreshments.

The Princeton Area Alumnae Association of Kappa Kappa Gamma will hold its annual philanthropic Christmas Wrap at the home of Mrs. Joseph Grazel, 140 Brookstone Drive, on Tuesday at 10. The group will wrap gifts donated by its members for a number of needy families in this area for distribution just before Christmas. For further information, call Mrs. Roy M. Cockburn, 737-2000.

The American Association of University Women will hold its annual holiday fellowship dinner Wednesday evening, December 7 at All Saints' Church, Van Dyke Road. Members and their guests are welcome to make reservations now for a home style ham dinner prepared by AAUW members. After dinner, a choral group from Westminster Choir College will lead everyone in singing traditional and new holiday songs.

Reservations must be made by Saturday. There is a charge of $3 per person, which will benefit AAUW's Fellowship Fund to provide awards for qualified women.

La Cercle Francais will hold a conference on "Contes et les Gens de Noel du Moyen Age a nos Jours." presentation a cinq voix, on December 13 at 8:30 p.m. at the Woodrow Wilson School.

The Montgomery Woman's Club will host a joint Christmas meeting with the Hopewell Woman's Club on Thursday, December 8, at 8 in the Blawenburg Reformed Church, Rte. 518. Families, friends and teenagers are invited.

"Wellspring," a group that includes Judy Gettel, alto, Vonna O'Neill, soprano, and Diana Lindberg, accompanist and sometime singer, will present the program. They are members of the Junior Friday Club and have performed for many churches and clubs with poetry, readings and musical selections since first per-

sensitivity to form and surface

At the Present Day Club. The work of Ann Packard is familiar to the Princeton community. She has spent much of her artistic career relating to the sea and shore at Cape Cod.

The current collection of her paintings at The Present Day Club includes the traditional seaside renditions as well as newer works that are taking this artist in other directions. Recent seascapes seem to focus on spatial harmonies and low key color statements changing the effect of the paintings from the traditional to a more sophisticated concern with the structural elements. The seascape is still there but is refined into new forms and rhythms.

At Grovers Mill Graphics. The work of Gallery artists can be seen through December. Watercolors, acrylics, graphics and sculpture span the stylistic continuum from conventional representation to highly creative dealings with space, color and form.

Paintings by Jack McLaughlin are featured. Photorealism in muted earth tones is tempered by textural effects. Figurative paintings, barns, and industrial landscapes are effectively rendered in a technique that is as restrained as this artist's palette.

--Helen Schwartz

EXHIBIT PLANNED

Of Wood Engravings. The Loft Gallery Center for the Arts, 306 Alexander Street, will feature the wood engravings of Stephan Martin through the holiday season. Mr. Martin is a resident of Roosevelt and a graduate of the Art Institute of Chicago.

According to the Gallery, wood engraving requires good drawing ability and meticulous care to render line variation. Mr. Martin, the Gallery feels, gives this attention to fine detail, whether his engraving is of a small dove or a large abstracted composition. He is the recipient of many first prize awards as well as purchase prizes for graphics.

His works are included in the collections of the Philadelphia Museum, the Library of Congress, the Chicago Art Institute, and the Museum of Modern Art in New York, among others. His prints have been included in group exhibits in various parts of the United States, Mexico, and Brazil.

HAITIAN WORK ON VIEW

In New Hope. An opportunity to see both Haitian art and Haitian crafts may be found in two allied ventures in New Hope, Pa., in Jacmel Gallery, at 30 North Main, and Jacmel Crafts, at 9 Mechanic.

Jacmel Gallery has what it considers the finest collection of Haitian and other primitive artists, including Yugoslavian, American, Brazilian, etc. on the East coast. Included in its permanent collection are works of Andre Pierre, Gilles, Obin, Gerard Paul, Audes Saul, Faustin, St. Brice, and Valcin, among many lesser but still inspiring artists.

The Jacmel Crafts enterprise carries a variety of creative and well-made peasant objects d'art, from small dolls and doll furniture, to painted screens, iron sculptures, dining-room chairs, hand-embroidered pillows, and large toy trucks made by Haitian children from wood and old tin cans and painted in bright colors.

The Gallery feels that in the East, and more especially in Bucks county, it is a daring venture to bring in the rich, glowing and almost startling colors of Africa and the tropics, often done in acrylic as well as oil, to collectors who normally do not go much beyond a Wyeth-type grey barn. From a base in the childlike and regressive side of consciousness, Haitian art recalls and reclaims a vitality and exhuberance that, up to now, is as unfashionable as it is, artistically and therapeutically, necessary.

PLANNING AN AUCTION: From left, Pat Light, Sarah Hollister and Peggy McNeill survey some of the items that will be available at the Decemberfest Auction sponsored by the Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association on Sunday, December 11, from 5 to 8 at the Institute for Advanced Study. The public is invited and reservations are available by calling 737-3735.

WATERCOLORS ON VIEW

At Medical Center. Patricia Tindall of 49 Van Wyck Drive, Princeton Junction, will display her watercolors at the Princeton Medical Center through January 8. The Women's Auxiliary of the Medical Center will hold a reception for the opening Sunday between 1 and 3 to which the public is invited.

Mrs. Tindall holds an administrative post in Princeton University's Department of art and archaeology in addition to pursuing an early interest in painting. She is a former free lance commercial artist trained at the Pratt Institute in New York who is now concentrating on watercolors to portray the local scenes and familiar objects that are the nucleus of the exhibit.

Mrs. Tindall has studied in recent months with Vincent Ceglia, Nicolas Reale, Jeanne Dobie and Christopher Schink.

Want a Tax Rebate?

December 1 is the deadline for filing the application for homestead tax rebate under New Jersey's income-tax law. The next payment is scheduled for April 1, 1978. Rebate forms were mailed to home-owners earlier this month, and if you did not receive one, you should call the tax office (Borough 924-3439; Township, 924-1088) to obtain a copy. To qualify for a rebate, your home must have been your principal place of residence on October 1 of this year.

The first 1978 payment will be half the total yearly amount, as it was in 1977. Unless the New Jersey State Legislature re-enacts the income tax or appropriates money from some other source, there will be no payment in the second half of the year. The income tax law expires June 30.

Amazingly enough, the quarterback on winning teams in SEVEN of the 11 Super Bowls to date came from a Southern college ... Bart Starr of Alabama and Terry Bradshaw from Louisiana Tech quarterbacked two Super Bowl wins each, with Green Bay and Pittsburgh respectively ... and Joe Namath of Alabama, John Unitas from Louisville and Ken Stabler of Alabama quarterbacked one Super Bowl win each with the New York Jets, Baltimore and Oakland respectively.

Of all the college and pro football coaches in history, which one won the greatest percentage of games over a career? ... The answer is Knute Rockne of Notre Dame who won 88 percent of all the games he coached (105 wins, 12 losses) ... No other coach has ever topped 80 over a career ... Ranking second in history is Frank Leahy, who coached at both Notre Dame and Boston College ... Leahy won 86 percent of all his games

What's the record for the most passes ever thrown by one team in any college or pro football game? ... The all-time record was set Sept. 28, 1968 when SMU threw an incredible 76 passes against Ohio State ... That total has never been topped in any other college or pro game

Football Team's Deep Regrets over Dismissal Of Casciola Complicate His Successor's Task

For the third time in less than a decade, Princeton University is undergoing the painful, contraversial process of selecting a new football coach. Because the dismissal ten days ago of Bob Casciola was immediately followed by widespread dismay on the part of many members of the team, and by bitter charges of mismanagement and incompetence against administrative officials responsible for current athletic policy, it is highly unlikely that the next Tiger coach can be uniformly well accepted.

Both the 1978 co-captains, offensive tackle Greg Bauman and linebacker Bob Ehrlich, have said they had hoped Casciola and his staff would be retained -- in fact, had felt it was likely in view of the combination of the resounding victory over Cornell in the final game and the numerous appeals in Athletic Director Royce Flippin and others that no change be made. "It doesn't reflect what the players want," said Ehrlich. "We were consulted, but it didn't do any good."

Principal targets of the criticism directed at the plight is which Princeton football finds itself were Flippin, for the double coaching turnover that has marked his first five years here, and University officials who set admissions policy. Casciola's supporters declare that a large part of his failure in achieve a winning record was traceable in a total lack of commitment to the football program here.

They point out that it was not until last winter -- four years after Casciola's arrival on campus -- that any concerted action to recruit a better grade of football players was taken. Somewhat surprisingly, the time-lag that normally occurs between such a declaration and visible results was non-existent: Princeton's current freshman class is generally accepted as being at least as good as any at the seven other Ivy colleges.

Charges by McCandless. Last week, if was primarily Flippin's decision that Casciola's five-year contract, expiring next June, not be renewed. In the late fall of 1972, it was also his evaluation of the state of Princeton football under Jake McCandless that led to the latter's sudden resignation early the following January.

In comments published in the Trenton Times last week, McCandless charged that Flippin had undermined his program here "behind the coaches' backs. He was interviewing disenchanted football players about what was wrong without our being told and with no recourse in the matter," McCandless said.

The former Princeton coach (whose first team in 1969 was the last to share in an Ivy title) sought support "from the people who were running Princeton" when he learned the part that Flippin was playing in evaluating the program here. "I couldn't get it, I couldn't live with two standards, and I handed them my resignation," McCandless said. He feels that in the last 10 years, the administration has moved 100 percent away from football, declaring that "the Princeton football spirit has been destroyed, and not by the players or the coaches."

As the period of transition between McCandless and Casciola showed, football can suffer when a college goes for a protracted time without a coaching staff. A lack of good material was a major factor, but Casciola's first season here was 1-8 and the freshman class which matriculated that fall was not a pronounced asset in attempts to rebuild in future years.

With that in mind, December 10 has been announced as the deadline for applications from those interested in becoming Princeton's 18th coach in the sport. There is even hope that a decision can be made before Christmas, although the opportunity to interview all qualified applicants in less than two weeks obviously does not exist. If a coach is hired in 10 in 14 days' time, it would have in be someone who is, in effect, waiting in the wings, and whose past record and future potential are of the highest quality.

On the (Rumor) List. No one on the selection committee Flippin named last week has said anything, of course, but the sportswriting fraternity -- and others -- are busy batting up names.

Of those being mentioned, the best possible choice -- and very probably the least likely to come here -- is Carmen Cozza of Yale. Not only is he a highly successful coach, but he knows both the Ivy League and Princeton personnel.

But unless Cozza is totally disenchanted with Yale, a situation that is highly unlikely in view of the nature of the man himself and his great popularity there, the odds are high that he will not come to Princeton. For its part, Yale would certainly do everything possible to keep the only successful coach it has.

Another whose hat has been put in the ring for him is Harold "Tubby" Raymond, the highly successful coach at Delaware, whose record (93-33-2) shows almost three victories for every game he has lost. It was Raymond whose Blue Hens upset Colgate, 21-3, to drop the Red Raiders from the unbeaten ranks a month after they had rolled over Princeton, 31-13.

Princeton offered Raymond the job here five years ago, but he turned it down. If he logically did not want in 1973 to leave the haven that spring practice, athletic scholarships and less rigid admission standards offer, what could change his mind now?

Homer Smith - Again. Three others being mentioned include another whose name was heard as a possibility for the job as far back as 1968, when Dick Colman resigned. Before they gave McCandless the job, Homer Smith, captain and fullback of the 1953 Tigers, was discussed as a possible choice.

Smith's 17-14 victory over Navy Saturday was essential in his having a shot at a new contract at Army, where his first four teams had lost in the midshipmen. He may not get it in any case, and if Princeton is insistent on bringing in a new coach with a winning record, he would not be considered here. His five-year mark at The Point is below .500.

Others are Fred Dunlap, who has been outstanding at both Lehigh and Colgate, and Bill Bowes, who learned his football under Joe Paterno at Penn State and has had 9-2 records during his last three seasons at New Hampshire since going there six years ago. Dunlap might conceivably want to move into the Ivy League but he is also athletic director at Colgate, and if he is interested in security, there is more there than here.

Casciola can stay at Princeton if he wants, serving as assistant athletic director.

Other Ivy Coaches Agree: Tigers Have Some Solid Personnel on Hand for '78

In sharp contrast in Princeton's 3-6 season in football and the leaderless status of the Tigers in the wake of dismissal of the coaching staff, a fair share of good news breaks into print this week. The Orange and Black made its best showing on the All-Ivy team in six years.

Bobby Isom, the fine tailback, and tackle Greg Bauman, a co-captain for 1978, were named to the first team on offense. As a pair, they represent 50 percent of the number of players Princeton has had selected since 1973--guard Bill Cronin, tackle Ted Schiffer and halfback Walt Snickenberger twice. Isom was also nominated as one of seven to receive consideration for the Asa Bushnell Cup, awarded to the top player among the Ivies, but Yale's John Pagliaro, who already holds it, is a shoo-in to repeat.

Topping the Tigers' ability to return to the first team, from which they were shut out a year ago, is the fact that they placed six men on the second team, five of whom are juniors--giving them more returning players with this honor than any other Ivy member. Because colleges with losing records are likely to be bypassed in the balloting for all-star awards, the recognition is all the more meaningful.

Named to the second team on offense were tackle Dan Friel, and center Andy Stephens, both of whom will begin their third year next fall as starters, and placekicker Chris Howe. The defensive selections were Bill Mitchell at end, the lone senior among Princeton's six, middle guard Pete Funke and linebacker Andy Hvidston. Honorable mention went to Frank Paolucci, another Junior, who earned a berth as a starting guard after making a successful conversion from tackle.

To no one's surprise, league champion Yale dominated the first team selections with eight, including Pagliaro, quarterback Bob Rizzo, three offensive linemen and three more on the defensive unit. Dartmouth earned runner-up honors with five players, followed by Penn with four, Brown with three and Princeton with its two. Columbia, Cornell and Harvard managed but one apiece. Choices are made by the eight league coaches, with none able to vote for his own players.

Football Coach Sought

among whose duties would be direction of football recruiting. Whether he will choose to serve as an assistant to the man who would not renew his contract as coach is something else again.

Indication of the extent to which rumors feed on a situation such as this is the one that toured Princeton Day School last week. A vacancy exists there, because Rob Hoffman, the former Penn fullback who has been the Panthers' coach for the past three years, left (as planned) at the end of the season.

His replacement? Bob Casciola. "No truth to it," said Athletic Director Alan Taback, as soon as he could stop laughing.

So the selection process will go on for a matter of weeks, in all likelihood into the new year unless Just the Right Man proves to be waiting around the corner. There is always the possibility, too, that Princeton may not be able to control the announcement of its selection. Word that Jake McCandless had resigned broke in Chicago, Ill., where one of his assistants told an AP sportswriter about it while attending the annual NCAA coaches meeting.

PHS PLACES THREE

On Girls CVC Hockey Team. Forwards Amy Lessing and Sally McEwen and halfback Linda Edwards of Princeton High School were named to the first Colonial Valley Conference field hockey team selected by the coaches.

On the second team from PHS were forward Ann Hackenberg, fullback Marie Sheehan and goalie Annette Howard. Those from PHS receiving honorable mention include halfbacks Beth Gilpin and Allison Hargreaves, fullbacks Grace Poole, Leigh Versfeld and Karin McNeil and forward Cathy Tomlinson. Tomlinson and Poole are juniors.

COACHES SOUGHT

For Windsor Soccer. The West Windsor Recreation Commission is seeking coaches for the 1978 soccer season.

The soccer league which just completed its most successful season must expand into two leagues next year. Over 140 children signed up to play in this year's 4th, 5th and 6th grade league. As a result of the large response the commission feels the need to form a 3, 4, 5th grade league and a 6, 7, 8th grade league.

Anyone interested in urged to call Dave Jenkins at 799-0355 or the Township Recreation Director at 799-2400. No prior experience is necessary, and a clinic will be held to instruct those who feel they may gain from it.

St. John's to Face Princeton Here Saturday In One of the East's Top Basketball Games

St. John's, one of the top opponents on Princeton's 1977-78 basketball schedule, will be in Jadwin Gymnasium Saturday night at 8. While a sellout is not expected, followers of the sport interested in a game between two teams who are strong candidates for national ranking will be present in large numbers. Jadwin holds 7,650, and it should be at least three-quarters filled.

Coach Lou Carnesecca's Redmen, invariably one of the top eastern teams, have an outstanding front line whose two principal members are 6-7 Captain George Johnson, who averaged 17.4 points last winter, and Wayne McKey, a 6-6 freshman center who was widely recruited before choosing St. John's. Gone from the backcourt is Glen Williams, an All-East guard who averaged 21.5 points, and the Tigers are lucky that Reggie Carter, a University of Hawaii transfer, will not become eligible to replace him until St. John's 15th game.

The Queens quintet, 22-9 last year and an NCAA participant, has won its first two games (at without a bit of trouble from Lafayette and Old Dominion) and played Vanderbilt on the road Tuesday. With Bill Omaltchenko below par last January after an appendectomy, St. John's rolled over Princeton, 75-50, before the Tigers ran off 12 straight to finish their regular season. Two years ago, Pete Carril's team won here in overtime, 58-55.

Navy Wednesday night of this week at Annapolis is the second game on Princeton's schedule. The midshipmen have their two top players back from last year's 13-11 team, and could give the Tigers trouble if they do not pay attention to the business at hand. Coach Bob Hamilton teaches a methodical attack and a sticky offense, one that held the Orange and Black to a 62-30 margin here last December.

Colgate First Victim. The season opened last Saturday with an 80-to-53 triumph over Colgate as Carril used all 15 of his players and saw 13 of them score. First-game action away from home against a much stronger opponent bothered the visitors, who were never in the game after trailing, 12-0, and failing to make their second field goal until better than 12 minutes had gone by. At that point, it was 28-9 for the home forces, who led, 43-22, at the half and 69-39 later on, before Carril got down to his third team.

Frank Sowinski, whose 63 percent accuracy was fifth best nationally last year, hit at 64 percent with 7 for 11, but percentage honors among those in double figures went to reserve guard Rich Rizzuto. He missed his first shot and then sank his next five, some from as far away as 30 feet.

Sowinski's 14 were matched by center Bob Roma on 5 for 8 shooting and 4 out of 5 at the line. The Tigers hit on 55 percent of their first half shots and settled for 52 on the game.

Tony Trani started at guard, having won the assignment at least temporarily from junior John Lewis, who had been tabbed by Carril for a place in the starting lineup. Trani connected on two of four shots and, unlike many varsity newcomers in backcourt, isn't afraid to fire off.

In 18 minutes of action, he had two assists and a steal while displaying visible poise. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Trani of 219 Nassau Street, he is the first Princeton resident to play basketball for the Tigers since Bobby Brown, who graduated a decade ago.

HUN AT BLAIR

For Basketball Opener. The Hun School basketball team will open its 1977-78 season Monday afternoon at Blair.

Next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday it will participate in the annual Peddie Invitation. Among the eight contestants are Hun, Pennington School, which won the event last year, Princeton Day School, Peddie, Chestnut Hill from Philadelphia and three New York state teams.

Hun compiled a fine 21 - 6 record last year, but had to settle for second place as Pennington, led by its high - scoring trio of Bob Potts, Tim Zimpleman and Herb Downing, swept all Penn - Jersey League and tournament honors. All three have graduated.

Hun has had its own standout player for the past three seasons — Ron Payton — and he is back for his senior year. Co - captain of the Hun squad this season, along with senior guard Bob Innocenzi, the 6 - 5, 195 - lb. Payton has already scored more than 1700 career points. Barring injury, he will set Hun scoring records that

AT LAST, A PRECISION ENGINEERED GERMAN LUXURY CAR WITHOUT THE LUXURY PRICE.
If you've always wanted to own a fine German luxury sedan, but haven't felt like paying the high price, you now have an alternative.
The Revolutionary new Audi 5000.
Like the Mercedes 280SE ($21,687)* and the BMW 530i ($13,620)* the Audi offers all the precision engineering, luxury and craftsmanship American drivers have come to expect from fine German sedans.
But unlike Mercedes and BMW, the Audi 5000's price is a modest $9,195*.
On top of that, the new Audi gives you engineering features you just can't get from the other two. Like front-wheel-drive for superb traction under any driving condition. And the world's first five-cylinder gasoline engine — a unique powerplant that combines the smoothness and performance of six cylinders with the economy of four.
Can an automobile with such a modest price ever hope to seriously compete with such fine machinery as Mercedes and BMW? Well, consider this: In Germany (The home of Mercedes and BMW), the Audi 5000 is already the best-selling car in its class.

[U]nexpected Loss of Two Key Players a Blow to PHS Quintet

[Wh]en last we left the [Pr]inceton High School [bask]etball team last March [thing]s were looking up.

The Little Tigers had [fin]ished the regular season [wi]th an 18-5 record Then they [wen]t on to defeat Freehold [Bor]ough, 79-63, for their first [NJS]IAA post - season tour[nam]ent win in a long time. [The]y were eliminated in the [seco]nd round by Red Bank, to [fin]ish 19-6 overall Not a great [season], but certainly a highly [succ]essful one.

[Wh]at's more, the prospects [fo]r the next season were [promisi]ng True, the three - [yea]r standout, 1,000 - point - [scor]er Junior Oldham had [gr]aduated. But returning [we]re 6-3, 215-lb. Todd [Bl]ackledge and 6-3 Kevin Ali, [who] finished with a rush. Blackledge would be the enforcer and Ali would help him control the boards. Also back was Mike Fuschini, the team's playmaker and fine outside shooter

Sadly, as PHS coach Marvin Trotman pointed out, Princeton is not a stable community. People constantly move in and out Blackledge departed for Ohio, Ali for California. Their departure left him with a squad whose tallest player is 6-2

Two lettermen joining Fuschini are John Sapoch and Kim Beasley. Sapoch began the 1976-77 season as a regular but did not see steady action. Beasley was a spot player. Sapoch's top offensive performance was six points against West Windsor. Beasley scored four points on five occasions.

"We're really rebuilding at this point," said Trotman, starting his sixth year "We have a lot of younger guys out, even freshmen It may well happen, I've been forced to use them before."

Trotman has 28 trying out and will cut to a 12 - player varsity unit. Before the opener against Franklin Township next Monday, he has scrimmages scheduled with New Brunswick and East Brunswick

"We'll (he and assistant coach Ed Beacham) take a good look at everybody before we make any kind of assessment As for duplicating last year, "the chances of coming close appear nil," said Trotman "We've added more games (MKSD and New Brunswick) and have less people."

Like Being in a Box. "It's going to be an interesting year, how the younger kids develop We'll wait and see what happens They write us off every year — this may be the year they're telling the truth. I'm doing everything I possibly can to get us out of this, it's like being in a box."

COURT CANDIDATE: Junior Bob Flippin is one of several players fighting to earn a starting role on the Princeton High basketball team.

Two members of last year's (15-7) jayvee team who should help Trotman rebuild are Bobby Flippin, a junior, and Brian McGriff, a senior, and tallest man on the team at 6-2 Others are Jeffrey Marshall and Dwight Bullock, a pair of juniors both under six feet, and sophomore Brian White, a transfer from Trenton.

And even before the season has begun there has been a buzzing about the Robinson twins, Kelly and Kevin. Only sophomores, both are about 6-1½ The potential is there, but only 50 percent right now because Kelly has his knee in a cast. "It will come off next month," reported Trotman

In the past, Trotman - coached teams have run on offense and been tenacious on defense (PHS held all opponents to a 56.9 average last year.) This year?

"We'll settle down and run some plays," said Trotman "We don't have the horses. You've got to have rebounds to run."

Upsets Possible. "We'll run if we have the opportunity against teams the same size, which I doubt any are We're smaller but smarter Maybe we'll upset a few teams."

Fuschini, who had a 13.5 average last year, "will try to put it together for us," said Trotman, who feels that PHS is a couple of years away "We can't draft like the private schools can," he quipped "Hopefully, not everyone will have their best game against us."

Rebuilding or not, Trotman has always made it interesting for his opponents on the court This year should be no exception.

It comes with luxuries like power-assisted rack and pinion steering, four-wheel power disc brakes, fully-reclining front bucket seats, two-stage metallic paint, a sliding sunroof, and four-wheel independent suspension for a smooth, stable ride—all as standard equipment. And now an optional three-speed automatic transmission.
Yet this incredibly luxurious car also gives you the economy of a diesel engine. You won't need any tune-ups. Just change the oil and filter by the book.
You won't need many fill-ups, either, because the Peugeot Diesel gets 35 mpg highway and 28 mpg city, according to EPA estimates.* And to top it off, diesel fuel nationally averages about 9¢ less per gallon than gasoline.†
So come in for a test drive. Because with a Peugeot Diesel you can indulge yourself And tell your friends you're just being practical.

Tiger Hockey Team Upsets Dartmouth, 4 to 3; Northeastern and Penn Are Next on Schedule

The Tigers' new hockey coach, Jim Higgins, scored his first victory in a Princeton "uniform" Saturday night sad it couldn't have come at a better time Beatso in its first two Ivy games by convincing margins (4-1 by Yale sad 8-3 by Brown), the Orange sad Black put its show on the road again for the seven-hour bus trip to Hanover, N H.

Waiting for it was a well-regarded Dartmouth team which had not only whipped the Tigers three times last year (once in a non league contest) by a total margin of 23 to 8, but had opened this season by edging Harvard in overtime at Cambridge, 5-4 Higgins' improving skaters took a big step forward by beating the Green, 4-3, largely on the strength of a three-goal surge in the middle period

Now they are 1-2-1 and looking forward to a rare occasion -- a game on their own ice Saturday's 7:30 contest against Northeastern will be their last home until January 7, when they face Boston University, and they will not return to Baker Rink again until February 2 One home game a month for the first three months of the season was the "get-well-quick" schedule handed them for the current season

Northeastern, not one of the East's top teams, bested the Tigers, 7-6, last winter in a somewhat sloppy contest on the way to an 11-18 season. The Huskies began their 1977-78 schedule Saturday with a 6-6 tie against Yale, and had games this week with New Hampshire and Maine

Tuesday night will see Princeton play its fourth Ivy game away from home when it faces Penn at Philadelphia The Quakers won both games last year, 3-2 and 7-3, but are figured to be about on a par with the Orange and Black this season. If the Tigers can win this one, ability to play .500 ball in four league games away from home before Christmas will prove a firm foundation for a higher finish than last year's sixth place in the standings

Dartmouth Takes Lead. A team which holds a 2-0 second period lead on its own ice over an opponent it is expected to beat should be on top at the finish, but Dartmouth never made it. The Tigers rallied from the deficit on goals by John Van Sicien and Cliff Lawrick and then took the lead for good on Lawrick's second of the round off a power play at 15 21

A vital insurance marker came with less than four minutes left in the game, senior forward Barry Wihack, who has been contributing much this season, giving Princeton a 4-2 margin at 16 39 Dartmouth then cut the advantage to the minimum with 1 20 to go but goalie Fred Cherne used good defensive play to preserve the victory He turned in a fine game, being credited with 16 of his 32 saves in the decisive third period

Earlier in the week, Brown continued its long dominance of the Princeton series by opening its season with an easy 8-3 triumph at Providence. The first goal came 37 seconds into the game, and while a tally by freshman Dave Tweedy left the Tigers' trailing by no more than 2-1 after 20 minutes, four straight second period goals by the home team put the lock on the outcome.

Frank Techar and Lawrick got the losers' other goals Making life even less pleasant for the Tigers was the fact that one score on Brown's side of the board was recorded while it was shorthanded.

Higgins felt that his team controlled the contest as it progressed by controlling Dartmouth's forechecking, and that his players deserved credit for following the predetermined game plan The Tigers got only 16 shots on goal, but semi-breakaways aided their ability to score

The Princeton coach credited his defense with making a major contribution to the outcome, singling out senior Henry Lane for a particularly good showing In addition to Cherne's work in the goal Higgins is hopeful that his personnel will stay free of injuries -- in contrast to Dartmouth, which skates four lines and five or six defensemen, he can field only nine forwards and counts himself lucky to have a swing man on defense should prevail for years to come

Two other senior lettermen returning are Pete Black, a 5-9 guard, and Craig Darvin, a 6-6 forward.

Coach Dave Leete will pick his fifth man from among 8-3 senior Bill Comly, who played sparingly on the varsity last year; senior Brian Lee, who, like 6-3 junior Mark DaLorenzo, was a member of the Hun jayvee squad last year, and from newcomer E. T Roach. Roach is 5-11.

Hun scrimmaged Pemberton last week, has another with West Windsor tais Wednesday and a third with powerful Trenton High School, Payton's home town, on Saturday

In the limited time he has seen his squad in action, Leete reported that its performance "hasn't been too bad We'll be centering around Ron, but the other kids can shoot, too, so hopefully we'll have some balance."

Will this be Hun's year in the Penn-Jersey league? Leete acknowledged that Hun has a "good chance" but added that Germantown Friends will be strong, too One thing is certain: every coach in the league wishes he had a Ron Peyton in his lineup.

FALL WINNERS NAMED

In Carnegie Racing. Five sailors came Sunday to compete in frigid temperatures that froze mainsheets and coated decks with ice, but the results did not change the final standings of the Carnegie Sailing Club's fall racing season.

In the Laser class, Bob Holzmen finished first, followed by John Henderson, Peter Grosz and Rick Ober. The Sunfish class was won by Dick Jessee, with Walt Gibson, Bruce Cleveland and Orin Pierce runners-up

BANQUET IS HELD

By PDS Soccer Team. The Princeton Day soccer team held its annual banquet last week, and with all its accomplishments this season, there was plenty to talk about.

The Panthers finished with a 14-0-2 mark, their first undefeated season ever, and captured the state prep championship in the B division for the fourth time in six years. Their 6-0 tie with Lawrenceville, the A division winner, ranks them up at the top of that division, too.

The most valuable player award was shared by the team's two co-captains, Mike Walters and Andy Sanford. Walters had 28 of the team's 54 goals this season plus 11 assists, while Sanford spearheaded a defense that shut out 10 opponents. Chris Bundy, another senior, who played "stopper back" in coach Tom DeVito's diamond defense, was voted the most improved player.

Next year's captains will be Doug Fine, Jay Nusblatt and David McCord. They'll be leading an experienced squad next fall, which will be supplemented by several good players moving up from the jayvees. Walters, Sanford, Bundy, goalie Johnny Rodgers and halfback Jeff Patterson will depart from the starting unit, plus reserves Wells Coldfleet, John Brett-Smith, Steve Cragg, Tom Gates and Steve Rowland.

DeVito feels the team doesn't quite get the recognition it deserves in the county, and is hopeful of playing more of the top high schools in the area in place of some of the weaker Northern New Jersey prep schools. However, some scheduling problems need to be resolved first.

Regardless of who it plays, PDS will have its work cut out trying to maintain a couple of streaks. It has not been beaten in 17 straight games, last losing to Lawrenceville 3-1 a year ago. And it has not lost at home since Oct. 31, 1975, when Newark Academy beat the Panthers.

Alumni Are Beaten. The first alumni soccer game, held the day after Thanksgiving, was a huge success, according to DeVito, with the Blue and White holding on to its undefeated season with a 2-0 victory.

It was a superbly played contest, as several recent graduates now on various college soccer teams returned to provide formidable opposition. PDS got both its goals in the second half, one on a head ball by Walters, the other when Nusblatt beat the goalie on a one-on-one situation.

Playing for the alumni were Cameron Ferrante, Williams; Grayson Ferrante, Colorado; Rob McClelland, Lake Forest; John Hickling and Tom Moore, Bowdoin; Tony Knott, Duke; Quinn McCord, Ohio Wesleyan; Jim Rodgers and Buzz Woodworth, Middlebury; Greg Bash, Ridar; John Gordon, John Haraldson and Dave O'Connor, Dartmouth and Fran Tervia, Carnegie-Mellon.

TOURNAMENT UNDERWAY

In Paddle Tennis. Princeton Youth Sports is sponsoring a paddle tennis tournament for players 8 - 17, who participated in a recent four - week clinic.

Eighty-eight boys and girls, divided by age and ability, are participating in the event. Winners and finalists will be awarded trophies on Sunday at 1:30 at the Community Park Courts. The public is invited to an exhibition mixed doubles matches among the finalists from 1:45 to 3.

Teams entered are: 17 and under boys, Bill McClelland and Adam Spiegel, Doug Ferguson and Steve Budd, Chris Henkel and John Denny, Tim Thomas and Rick Tetzeli, Nigel Flanagan and Keith Phux, David Bogel and Jim Cohen; 17 and under girls, Dabbie Blair and Lisa Florence, Jane Henderson and Kim Thomas, Barbara Zeitler and Liza Stewardson, Julie Heeg and Suzanne Tassie, Sue Hughes and Kim Budd, Molly McDougald and Amy Cooper; 13 and under boys, Mac McDougald and Rob Bowen, Glen Clevaland and Jeff Henkel, Mike Petrone and Ned Desmond, John Jennings and John Dumont, Andy Phillips and David Prockop, Lawrence Miller and John Woodward, Doug Thompson and Chris Galliardo; 14 and under girls, Susie Gates and Carolyn Cahill, Jane Opperman and Emily Reeves, Di Caskey and Mary Alyss Heeg, Sophie Volpp and Susannah Robins, Debby Taylor and Sara Burchfield, Fran Johnston and Susan Wilder, Audrey Chen and Lyn Abernethy, Jenny Flynn and Courtney Hoff.

Twelve and under girls include Julie Caskey and Pat Huckins, Sarah Bayard and Emily Horsely, Karrie Bowen and Rita Sweeney, Sam Crimmins and Bath Berman, Pam Jennings and Phoebe Vaughn, Mary Beth Hughes and Jennifer Powers, Carrie Stewardson and Peggy Stabler, Melinda Bowen and Lisa Blair.

The boys 10 and under, Jonathan Jaffee and Scott Murphy, Chris Tetzeli and Chris Illick, Chris Stewart and Scott Fulmer, Craig McClelland and Brad Powers, Charlie Reeves and John Teweles, and Tim McDougald and Chris McCabe. The 10 and under girls teams are Leslie Huckins and Kim Travers, Jessica Berman and Kathy Smith, Liz Bayard and Weld Royal, Margie Wallace and Katie Hughes, Louise Hall and Polly Cooper, Page Crimmins and Mary Robins.

REGISTRATION IS NEAR

For Indoor Soccer. The Princeton Soccer Club will begin its third consecutive winter indoor program Saturday, January 14, and continue every Saturday through March 4. It is open to boys and girls, 6-18, who will be divided by age and ability for training sessions and indoor play. Soccer Club director Richard Brood, former assistant coach at Princeton University, will direct the program.

He will be assisted by former Princeton High All-State player Bernie Shanfield and Frank Sharry, captain of Princeton University's team. The club will also employ high school coaches Ed Beacham, John Jamieson, and Dan Bailey as part of its instructional staff along with several other players from Princeton University. Each session, 1½ hours long will be held at Princeton Day School and Stuart Country Day.

Those who have participated previously will receive information and registration forms by mail. Others may obtain them from the athletic directors of local schools or from various stores and youth organizations in the community.

The first formal registration is Saturday, December 10, from 9-12 noon at Baker Rink on the Princeton University campus. Those seeking further information should call 737-1675 or write The Princeton Soccer Club, P.O. Box 257.

OLYMPIC POOL PLANNED

By Hopewell Tennis Center. An Olympic-size, 25-meter swimming pool is in the process of being constructed by the Hopewell Valley Tennis Center, Titusmill Road and Route 31 in Pennington. It will have one meter and half-meter competition diving boards and Kiefer racing lanes.

In addition, a separate, 20-foot diameter kiddie wading pool will be installed adjacent to the shallow area of the main pool. The addition of the new pools, said owner Grover Gedney, will highlight a spring-summer swim and tennis program which will open May 1 and run through September 30. The Club will offer unlimited tennis play on its six new Har-Tru outdoor courts in addition to swimming. Lessons, racing teams, scuba, water ballet will all be featured in the summer program.

Special bonus incentives to charter members is being offered by the Club. For further information, call 737-3600.
